Fry praised at dinner by colleagues, Simon

By Karen Torrey
Staff Writer

In the past, when someone stepped to a podium to talk about Carbondale City Manager Carroll Fry, the comments were sometimes less than favorable.

But there was nothing but praise, sometimes tempered by humor, for the outspoken administrator Saturday night when about 180 people gathered at the Carbondale Holiday Inn to honor Fry's 11 years of service in Carbondale.

"If I were to give you a grade for diplomacy," Rep. Paul Simon told Fry, "your grade would not be high."

"But if I were to give you a grade for effectiveness," the Makanda Democrat continued, "that grade would be an A plus."

Simon called Fry "one of the most effective public servants in getting the job done."

"Carroll Fry has done an immense amount of good for this city," said Simon. "We really pay tribute to Carroll Fry if we make sure this city and this area continue to move ahead."

Two former mayors and six former council members joined Mayor Helen Westberg and the present City Council in paying tribute to the man paid to administer council policies. Westberg announced that Aug. 20 to 26 will be Carroll J. Fry Week in Carbondale.

When Carroll Fry was hired as city manager in 1971, "the city didn't know how much money it had or how much it had obligated," according to George Karnes, a Carbondale dentist and councilman from 1971 to 1973.

"I bet it knows now," he said. "You won't find a better money manager than Carroll Fry."

Also praising Fry's fiscal skills, Charles Watkins, a councilman from 1968 to 1971 and now a minister in Owensboro, Ky., remembered Fry's first public statement as city manager: "Turning the City Council loose with the people's money is like turning your wife loose with your checkbook."

Former Councilman Eldon Ray, who served from 1978-79, also honored Fry by quoting him.

Ray recalled advice Fry gave him when Ray was considering an important decision he had to make as a council member: "If you're going to direct the orchestra, you've got to turn your back on the crowd."

"That's why Carroll Fry has

King's dream again inspires marchers

By John Schrag
Staff Writer

This weekend a group of students and Southern Illinois residents will travel to Washington, D.C., to reaffirm a dream — a dream that Martin Luther King Jr. proclaimed two decades ago.

The entourage will not be the first to journey to the nation's capital to promote civil rights and racial equality. About 40 people from Southern Illinois participated in the historic March on Washington in 1963.

Thomas Bell, a resident of northeast Carbondale, was one of those who made the long journey 20 years ago. He said that for a 23-year-old from a small Southern Illinois town, the event was "quite an experience."

"What impressed me more than anything was all the people," he said. "There were people from all over and from all walks of life."

But despite all the people, he said it was a peaceful event.

"There was a lot of love shown by all the people that I met," he said.

Lloyd Sumner, another other Carbondale resident, also went on the march in 1963. He said that people from Cairo to Mount Vernon joined the trip, which was sponsored and organized by various religious groups and the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He said the event, which drew an estimated 200,000 people, was very moving.

"Words would fail a person who tried to describe it," he said. "I felt anger, pride, frustration, the whole bit, all wrapped up into one experience. I knew history was being made."

Bell said that although he is unable to go on the march this weekend, he is glad that others from the area will be there to reaffirm the goals stated by Dr. King in his famous "I Have a Dream" speech.

"There's been a lot of effort to realize those goals, but there's a lot left to be done," he said. "I'm glad that the whole effort is being revived and that renewed attention is being given to that historic event."

Nick Rion, of Anna, is one of the people involved in that effort. He is director of the Mid-

Three charged with rape

Two SIU-C students and a Carbondale resident were arrested and charged with rape in two separate incidents Saturday.

Hamad Fahmy, 26, of 405 E. College St., and Mamdouh Shebli, 25, of 800 E. Grand Ave., are in the Jackson County jail under $20,000 bond each. They were arrested Saturday night after allegedly raping an 18-year-old Alabama woman selling magazines door-to-door, according to Carbondale police.

The woman told police she sold the two men magazine subscriptions at Fahmy's residence about 2 p.m. and was leaving when they pulled her back into the home, where both raped her.

At 3:30 p.m., police said, she was allowed to dress and leave the residence. She reported the rape an hour later and was treated and released from Carbondale Memorial Hospital.

Jackson County State's Attorney John Clemons said the woman was apparently part of a group which travels around the country selling subscriptions.

Shebli is listed at the Office of Admissions and Records as a graduate student in geology.

Fahmy is not listed as a student but, according to Clemons, Fahmy said during his initial court appearance that he is a student at SIU-C.

Clemons said the two men, who are Egyptian, were appointed counsel from the public defender's office.

Kevin L. Simmons, 24, of 308 S. Graham Ave., was arrested and charged with attempted rape Saturday morning. He was shot in the leg as he fled a 15-year-old girl's room, and was treated at Carbondale Memorial Hospital before being

Lottery creates three millionaires

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago man who says he's "already well off" and a double winner from Pekin became two of the state's three newest millionaires Monday.

The three winners will share a record $6.9 million prize in the Illinois Lotto game. The third millionaire has not come forward yet, lottery officials said, noting that he has a year to do so.

William Shelby, 46, of Chicago, and Harold Collins, 57, of Pekin, will each receive $2.3 million, or $115,000 a year for 20 years, for choosing the six winning numbers — 1-11-17-21-29-32 — in Saturday's drawing. On a second entry, Collins chose five of the six winning numbers, entitling him to another $1,139. Lottery officials said 500 players matched five of six numbers.

The odds of having the winning combination were 1 in 1.9 million for each $1 ticket purchased, officials said.

The jackpot — usually about $1 million — grew to $6.9 million when four weeks went by without a winner and unclaimed money was added to the prize.

When Collins was told the amount of his fortune while at the Quick Trip store in Pekin, where he purchased the winning ticket, he said calmly, "Now, that's just what I need."

"If you win a dollar, you win a dollar; if you win a million, you win a million," added Collins, who has worked for 36 years for Caterpillar Tractor Co.

Collins, an engine repairer at the company's Mossville plant, said he will treat his co-workers to dinner and may buy a new car to replace his 1971 Pontiac.

He also said he will leave it up to Cathie, his 32-year-old "sweetie," to decide how to spend the money.

For the time being, Collins said he'll continue working.

"I've got to get the first check first before I retire, you know," said Collins, who said he spent between $48 and $50 on lottery tickets Saturday.

Collins, who said he currently brings home $508 a week from his job, said of his smaller $1,139 prize: "I'll probably give most of it away."

He said he picked some of the winning numbers by looking at winning numbers in other states. The other numbers were holidays, he said, except for 32.

Meanwhile, Shelby said at a Monday news conference in Chicago that his new fortune will have little effect on his life.

Asked what his occupation was, Shelby quipped initially, "Staying one step ahead of the law."

He later said he was once a singer.

Shelby, who has a wife, Emma, and seven children, said he put up $153 for tickets. One son selected the numbers and a daughter bought the tickets.

Asked how the family would spend the money, Mrs. Shelby said, "We will take a trip. All the kids will get new cars ... or whatever they want."

And, she added, the family will continue to play the game.

Alstat and Dunn vie for Senate

By Karen Torrey
Staff Writer

State Rep. Ralph Dunn, R-115th District, and former State Rep. Wayne Alstat of Vergennes probably will face each other in the primary election race for the state Senate seat now held by Democrat Kenneth Buzbee of Makanda.

Alstat announced Monday that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination and Dunn said he probably will announce his candidacy Wednesday night at the Union County Fair in Anna.

Dunn said he was "a little surprised" that Alstat is running, because the former representative told him that he wouldn't seek the nomination if Dunn decided to run.

But Dunn said Alstat's announcement won't affect his own plans and he believes he can beat Alstat.

"I wouldn't run if I didn't think I could win," said Dunn.

Alstat said he doesn't want to run against Dunn and claimed that at least three Perry County Republican Party chairmen "are not really pushing (Dunn) to run."

Dunn disputed Alstat's claim, saying that he has discussed his state Senate candidacy with the chairmen and all "thought it was a great idea that I run for the Senate."

"I feel real comfortable about my county chairmen being behind my candidacy," said Dunn.

Dunn said he talked to six or seven area Republicans who are possible candidates for his state House post.

"I felt a commitment to find someone to run," said Dunn. "There are a lot of good Republicans interested in my seat."

Murphysboro Mayor Sydney Appleton and Randolph County Coroner Gary McClure of Chester have both announced their candidacies for the post Buzbee will forfeit to seek the 115th District U.S. House seat held for 10 years by Paul Simon. Simon is running for the U.S. Senate.

Police baffled by multiple slayings

PARK FOREST (AP) — The deaths of two people, found handcuffed with their throats slashed, brings to six the weekend toll in a quiet suburban area south of Chicago that has experienced five multiple slayings this summer, authorities said Monday.

Will County State's Attorney Edward Petka said early Monday the latest killings "are not, in my opinion, related" to the 14 other deaths.

"They were all random, savage attacks on people, but a preliminary investigation indicates the victims in Park Forest were involved in some drug violations," said Petka, who has jurisdiction in this case and in the deaths of 12 other recent victims.

"These (victims) don't fit the profile we've put together to my way of thinking," he said.

"I believe we will solve each and every one," Petka said of the slayings.

The 14 other murders — beginning with the June 25 slayings of two elderly sisters and extending through Saturday, when police discovered four women brutally slain in a ceramics shop — have puzzled authorities and prompted frightened residents to talk about arming themselves.

"It's been frustrating for the investigators," spokesman Bob Fletcher of the Illinois Department of Criminal Investigation said Monday, one day after Governor Thompson ordered the agency to assist Will and Cook county authorities.

"The lack of a relationship between the murders or the presence of one just has not been established," said Fletcher, noting that 20 DCI field investigators and a handful of technicians joined the case Monday. "The apparent lack of a motive and the concentration of geography add a good deal of complexity."

"It could just be several murderers operating through coincidence," he said. "But one avenue we're pursuing is former or escaped mental patients, or a recently released convict with a history of violence. I don't have to suggest why."

Petka declined to say whether authorities were hunting a killer or killers, but said a composite drawing based on information from survivors was being distributed.

The series of murders have few similarities, although investigators note all were committed on a Saturday or Sunday.

Chad may call for French aid

N'DJAMENA, Chad (AP) — Chad's embattled government expects France to "go to war" and "give us all the military help necessary to restore the freedom and territorial integrity of our country," the government's information minister said Monday.

But when asked if President Hissene Habre has asked for the French force of 3,000 troops and 12 combat planes to join in an offensive against Libyan-supported rebels, information minister Soumaila Mahamat replied:

"We have not asked for it so far because we are not ready yet. When we are ready, we will ask the French to stand beside us."

Rocket fire kills six Lebanese

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian and Druze militiamen clashed in heavy artillery and rocket battles Monday in the hills overlooking Beirut, and police said six civilians were killed and 21 wounded.

Shells exploded near the presidential palace and the residence of the U.S. ambassador, but caused no casualties or damage.

Walesa cancels Solidarity speech

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — About 300 Solidarity supporters demonstrated in Gdansk on Monday, the eve of a threatened work slowdown to mark the third anniversary of the agreement that created the now-outlawed union.

They waited in vain, however, for Solidarity chairman Lech Walesa, who had announced Aug. 15 that he would appear Monday outside the Lenin Shipyard. But he canceled his plans at the last minute.

Walesa said his action would not affect the work slowdown, scheduled to begin Tuesday unless Communist authorities initiate negotiations with Walesa on reviving free trade unions.

been so successful as city manager in Carbondale," said Ray.

Former Mayor Hans Fischer pointed to Fry as an example of "one talented individual with integrity, ability, perseverance and unwavering loyalty."

"The standards set by Carroll Fry will not soon be equalled," said Fischer, who stepped down as mayor in April.

Former council member Susan Mitchell said she enjoyed arguing with Fry "on a regular basis."

Mitchell said she learned from Fry to fight for what you believe in, and, when it comes down to it, believe in what the majority votes for.

"Carroll Fry knew his role as city manager," she said.

Westberg, who has worked with Fry as a council member and mayor for 10 years, told the city manager: "City Council meetings are not going to be the same. We will miss you."

But, said Fry, retirement was inevitable.

"I knew for sure it was on the way when I had a birthday party and the candles on the cake turned on the air conditioner in the middle of winter," he quipped.

Fry told his audience that citizens should ask themselves, "What can I do to help our local elected officials to keep this community moving ahead?"

Fry sees the downtown conference center project, long plagued by financial problems and delays, as an important part of that progress.

"I hope I live long enough to see the conference center built," said Fry. "It points up the best in this community and the worst."

Staff could get 4.5 percent raise soon

By Phillip Florini
Staff Writer

All negotiating SIU-C civil service employees may have their 4.5 percent pay increases for fiscal year 1983 by the middle of September, according to the president of the Civil Service Bargaining Organization.

CSBO President Lee Hester said Monday that salary negotiations ended last week and he hopes the increases will be on the payroll computers by Sept. 15. The straight across-the-board increases are based on their current salaries.

A spokesman at the payroll office said that the middle of September was a fair estimate for when the increases could be distributed.

Range civil service workers — those not paid prevailing wages and not on negotiated contracts — can expect to see the increases for July and August in their September paychecks, according to John Baker, executive director for planning and budgeting.

Hester, a worker in the Botany Department, said that the hours employees worked from July through September will be totaled, and the increase for those hours will be distributed in one paycheck.

University clerical workers in the academic units are those civil service workers who negotiate contracts. Hester said. People working as lab technicians or in the physical plant also negotiate their contracts.

SIU-C civil service workers operate on nine or 12-month contracts. Hester said employees on nine-month contracts are laid off after the spring term and are rehired just prior to the beginning of the fall semester.

"They then draw unemployment (compensation) during the summer months," he said.

Civil service employees in the Office of the Chancellor will receive 1 percentage point of the 4.5-percent increase across the board on an equal dollar basis, while the remainder will be distributed on the basis of merit. Those civil service workers will receive July and August increases in their September paychecks, also.

Hayes may sweep special election

CHICAGO (AP) — Labor leader Charles Hayes, Mayor Harold Washington's hand-picked successor, expects to win handily Tuesday's special election in the heavily Democratic 1st congressional district and already is planning for 1984, an aide says.

Hayes faces Republican candidate Diane Prezcelly, a 33-year-old community newspaper columnist, in Tuesday's race for the U.S. House seat Washington vacated to become mayor. Hayes received about 41 times as many votes in last month's Democratic primary as the four GOP candidates combined.

A 65-year-old international vice president of the United Food & Commercial Workers Union who received the mayor's endorsement, Hayes defeated 13 other candidates in the primary and captured 45 percent of the vote.

Despite the overwhelmingly Democratic makeup of the South Side district, Hayes has been campaigning actively, said Chatman Wailes.

transported to Jackson County jail under $50,000 bond, police said.

His arrest came after a father was awakened about 2:15 a.m. in his home on the southeast side by the sound of his daughter crying in the next room. He told police he grabbed a gun and went into the hallway where he saw a black male coming out of her room while trying to put his clothes on.

The father told the man to lay on the floor, but the man came toward him and the father fired a shot, hitting him in the right leg. The man then fled the home.

The daughter told police she was awakened by a man laying on top of her, saying "I'm going to kill you."

Police later found Simmons at his home with a bullet wound in his right leg.

According to the Jackson County State's Attorney's office, Simmons is also charged with residential burglary.

"It's important that we go to this event," he said. "It's important that we show the people of the United States and the world that there are still people out there who care and who want to celebrate the life of a great man."

Rion agreed with Beil's assessment that it is time to "reaffirm the dream."

"In 20 years we really haven't come that far," he said. "I just hope that 20 years from now we don't have to do this again."

The group from Southern Illinois is scheduled to depart from the Student Center in a University bus at 9 p.m. Thursday and should arrive in Washington late Friday afternoon. Saturday morning the group will join an estimated 250,000 to 400,000 other people at the mall in front of the Washington Memorial and then march along Constitution Avenue to a rally at the Lincoln Memorial.

Several civil rights leaders, including Coretta Scott King, widow of the late Dr. King; the Rev. Jesse Jackson, president of Operation PUSH; and Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the NAACP, are expected to speak at the rally.

The bus will leave Washington Saturday night and arrive in Carbondale Sunday evening. Cost for the trip is $55. Rion said there is still plenty of room on the bus.

"Organizing this event locally has been difficult," he said. "With school out, a lot of MAPP workers have been out of the area."

Rion said a local labor union is helping pay the way of two union workers from the area. He said he had hoped to get the support of local teacher unions, but with schools starting teachers can't take time off.

Charity, hope bring new life for Harold

USUALLY, THE daily news is depressing. But occasionally a story comes up that restores your faith in humanity.

Harold McFarlin's story is one of those. It illustrates that, in a time when our sports heroes are exposed as coke fiends, our political leaders have homosexual affairs with kids and our industry poisons whole towns with dioxin, there are still such novel things as charity and hope in our world.

Most of the people who donated money for Harold's new heart never had him for a class, never lived in his neighborhood and never had the opportunity to meet him. But thanks to their charity and hope, they have the chance to meet him in the future.

IT WAS A SMALL service for most of us, some change at a basketball game or 10 bucks to a friend who was collecting. But charity is really measured in people, not dollars.

The people of Southern Illinois gave $60,000 at a time when money is tight and "giveaway" is a bad word. And they gave happily.

Now Harold is recovering and everyone is relieved. The initial problem is solved. But the road back to Carbondale will be a long and costly one for Harold. He may need more help in the future. Let's hope that Southern Illinois will once again be charitable. It's always great to read good news for a change.

Fear of AIDS is here

Cynthia Rector is to be congratulated on her excellent two-part article on AIDS. The existence and nature of AIDS has been widely publicized since its emergence as a recognized medical condition several years ago. It is natural for all of us to have concerns about a condition such as AIDS, but I am afraid that the second article may have unwittingly left its readers thinking that there is no medical interest in AIDS either nationally or in the Carbondale community.

To the contrary, the United States Public Health Service has declared AIDS its No. 1 priority. The finest medical research minds in the country are at present focusing the kind of effort on AIDS which led to the spectacular solution of the Legionnaires Disease scare some years ago. Gays in our society have ample reason to complain of discrimination and disparagement, but the AIDS problem has not met with the kind of public or governmental neglect that many gay groups anticipated.

I am afraid the second article may also have left readers concerned as to whether the Carbondale medical community can provide them with counseling and diagnosis for AIDS. Health Service physicians are knowledgeable of AIDS and have at their disposal a sophisticated battery of immunological tests when medical symptoms warrant their use. Speaking as one of many Carbondale physicians with a special interest in this and other sexually related conditions, I can assure readers of the DE that the local medical community is ready and able to diagnose AIDS in the unfortunate event that a case presents itself.

The present concern about AIDS obscures the fact that persons with a male gay lifestyle are at an enhanced risk for a number of sexually transmitted conditions all of which are far more common than AIDS. At the Health Service we are most interested in hepatitis B because of its seriousness and the availability of an effective vaccine. This vaccine, as well as information and medical care for all sexually transmitted conditions, is available at the Health Service.

In many ways the worst effect of AIDS is the fear which it has generated. Whereas AIDS has not reached Carbondale, that fear has. This was the message of Ms. Rector's series, and the Health Service can provide information, counseling and, where necessary, diagnostic testing for those who are living with the AIDS fear. — Dr. Lawrence E. Frisch, Medical Chief of Staff, Student Health Program.

U.S. is less barbarous than Soviets

Several weeks ago in this paper, the question was raised: "Is the U.S. as brutal as the U.S.S.R., or more so?" In the article, one was led to believe that the United States and the Soviet Union are equally brutal in dealing with foreign governments and their peoples.

The writer, Charles Victor, cited the Polish and Salvadoran situations as examples. These were good examples, but not enough to adequately prove his point. The superpowers may not be saints, but they are not both demons. Mr. Victor's placing of the United States on the same low level as the Soviet Union is like manipulating the answer of a math problem just because one does not like the outcome.

This is not to say he was totally incorrect. Sometimes, American actions can be as atrocious as Soviet ones. For instance, like the Soviet Union, the United States has stolen the territory of others, supported imperialistic regimes, funded human rights violators and installed puppet governments.

Despite these similarities, the United States and the Soviet Union are really quite different in treating other nations and their peoples. When comparing American actions, past and present, with their Soviet counterparts one finds the Soviet Union far more barbarous than the United States has been or could ever be.

In Afghanistan, Laos and Kampuchea, the Soviet Union has been using chemical and biological toxins against the inhabitants. As repayment for military assistance, the Soviet Union has impressed over a half million Vietnamese into slave labor camps. These people are forced to work on such projects as the Yamal (Siberian) pipeline, where starvation, severe cold and disease are prevalent. Others languishing in the U.S.S.R. include American, British, German and Japanese soldiers who were either captured or "liberated" by the Soviets during World War II.

This is only a short list of Soviet cruelties which have no conceivable American counterparts. A more complete listing would take many volumes. If one were to include Soviet government abuse of its own populace, it would take at least twice as many volumes.

Accuracy in political theories depends on both the amount of good examples and how close these examples are in being a sample of reality. Mr. Victor's article failed on both. If he had done a little more research, his article probably would not have had so many problems. A house built on half-truths and lies easily collapses. — John D. Rutledge, Computer Science and Political Science.

Sweden's Nordic peace zone plan sincere

Editor's Note: This is the first of two columns on the possibilities for nuclear disarmament in Europe.

Jack Prasai
Staff Writer

ONE OF MY friends recently arrived from Switzerland and told me of the dissatisfaction over present U.S. nuclear deployment plans in Europe. She argued for eventual European disarmament. I noted that, besides the overtures being made between U.S. European allies or partially obstruct any more U.S. nuclear installations in Western Europe, the current leader in the nuclear freeze movement is Sweden, with its campaign to completely ban nuclear weapons from the Nordic zone. The Swedish move is exemplary in reducing East-West security tensions, which are a detriment to both sides. The proposed nuclear-free area initially would cover neutral states Finland and Sweden, and NATO members Denmark and Norway. The fifth Nordic country, NATO member Iceland, would be brought in later. In exchange for the Nordic ban on nuclear weapons, Washington and Moscow would agree not to launch a nuclear strike against them.

SWEDEN VALUES the zone not as a realistic guarantee against attack in wartime, but as a confidence-builder that would preserve peace in Europe. Congress has reacted diplomatically, Vice President George Bush has agreed to present the proposal to Washington and Soviet leader Yuri Andropov has offered to discuss a nuclear-free zone around the Baltic Sea as part of the arrangement. Andropov has repeated the Kremlin's willingness to study the possibility of "substantial measures" in dealing with nuclear weapons on adjoining Soviet territory.

The Swedish plan, a revamped version of a 1963 Finnish proposal, does not call for a total ban on nuclear weapons in adjoining areas, but rather elimination of short-range strategic missiles on the border of northern Norway and Finland — an area Western defense reports say contains 70 percent of the Soviet strategic submarine force.

SPECIAL TRANSIT rights would have to be negotiated for nuclear-armed Soviet naval units lying in the Baltic Sea because over 50 percent of their naval dockyards are in that area. At present there are no permanent Western nuclear submarine patrols, although there are no restrictions on them.

American critics of the plan voice the view that establishing the Baltic as a nuclear-free zone would allow Moscow control over the area.

Other critics argue that the agreement would politically isolate the Baltic and weaken NATO solidarity.

Norway controls the Baltic approaches and Denmark imposes limitations on the number of warships passing through its narrow straits. Although neither country allows nuclear weapons in peacetime, they reserve that right during wartime.

Sweden no doubt has sincere intentions in creating a Nordic Zone of Peace — a positive step towards creating a nuclear-free Europe by the century's end.

Gillespie to play Shryock

By Terry Levecke
Entertainment Editor

The jazz legend Dizzy Gillespie will make his first Southern Illinois appearance on Wednesday, September 28 at Shryock Auditorium.

Gillespie has been playing trumpet since the '30s and has been accredited as the originator of "be-bop" jazz.

Not only has he created his own style of jazz music, he has also designed his own trumpet and technique in playing. Instead of playing the standard, tight lipped puckered cheek style, Dizzy swells his cheeks with air, taking on a peculiar appearance.

The 66-year-old native of South Carolina has played with jazz legends Cab Calloway, Coleman Hawkins, Duke Ellington and Charlie Parker, to name a few.

His most classic work was produced when he joined forces with Charlie Parker and a rhythm section to play swing style riff tunes like "Salt Peanuts," upbeat tunes like "Sho' Nuff," and melodic tunes like "Groovin' High."

Gillespie has also had his hand in another jazz style developed in 1947, known as "Afro-Cuban" jazz, when he collaborated with Gil Fuller in a series of compositions for Cuban congo drummer Chano Pazo.

Gillespie will perform at 8 p.m. tickets are $9 and $10 and go on sale Thursday at the Student Center Central Ticket Office.

Jazz legend Dizzy Gillespie will play at Shryock September 28.

Weekend revelries resulted in three arrests on The Strip

Two SIUC students were arrested early Saturday morning as Carbondale police tried to clear a section of The Strip closed by partying students returning for fall semester.

James M. McHenry, 19, of Belleville, was arrested at 1:43 a.m. in front of The American Tap, 518 S. Illinois Ave., for obstructing people in a roadway and resisting arrest, police said.

McHenry, a sophomore enrolled in the School of Technical Careers, didn't list a local address. He was released on a notice to appear in court.

Also arrested was Jeffrey K. Brown, 23, of White Heath, after he tried to hit an officer, then elbowed one as the officer was clearing the road.

He was arrested at 1:15 a.m. and charged with aggravated battery. A junior in journalism he also listed no local address.

Brown was released from Jackson County jail on his own recognizance.

Police said a crowd of students closed a section of the street, around the 500 block, for about half an hour.

In a separate incident early Sunday morning, another student was arrested and charged with battery after he pushed an officer in the chest in front of TJ McFly's, 315 S. Illinois Ave.

Nasser M. Annab, 19, of Neely Hall, was arrested at 1:59 a.m. Police said he punched a passing car and then shoved the officer.

A freshman in general studies, Annab was released on a notice to appear in court.

Economists find range of grocery prices high

By Saba Bennett
Student Writer

Rosemary Walker and Brenna Cude, consumer economists at SIU-C, have found that the same bag of groceries could range in price from $15 to $38, depending on how one shops.

Their research, conducted in October 1981, tested three shopping strategies for effectiveness. They priced 23 different products at three Carbondale supermarkets.

They found that unit-pricing is the most effective rule-of-thumb for consumers, that buying "economy" sizes is often not a good idea and buying generically saves time as well as money.

Buying name brands on sale doesn't save as much money as you would expect, Walker said. The sale prices of these products are still considerably higher than generic or store brands.

Advertisers push jumbo and economy sizes as better values than the smaller sizes, which isn't always the case. "About 19 percent of larger sizes are not better buys per unit," Cude said.

Many students are shopping for just one person and they pay "small size preference penalties" in some cases, Walker said. "A smaller size could cost up to 300 percent more, especially in the category of personal care items, such as toothpaste and shampoo," Walker said.

Both Walker and Cude agreed that unit pricing — figuring out the cost-per-ounce — is the best way to save money at the supermarket. All stores don't have price-per-unit tags, however, and the process of determining the price-per-unit is time consuming.

Cude and Walker said that buying generic products will save both time and money, as money.

"Our 23-item generic bag of groceries cost less than $1 more than our carefully unit-priced bag," Walker said. "But some stores do not carry a full line of generic products. Store brands cost about the same as generic brands."

Their study was aimed only at determining the lowest price for the groceries and did not determine quality differences between generic and name-brand products.

Touch of Nature offers variety

By Kathy Freehill
Student Writer

Before the work of another semester catches up with you, get in touch with nature at the Touch of Nature Environmental Center located 10 miles south of Carbondale, in the Shawnee National Forest.

Touch of Nature is the only facility of its kind in Illinois to offer program participants a look at the forested hills and bluffs that escaped glaciation, plus acres of gently rolling grasslands.

There is access to Little Grassy Lake, numerous ponds and interlacing streams. There is an abundance of wildlife including white-tailed deer, beaver, turkey, quail and many songbirds. And there is a diversity of plant life.

The facility, adjacent to Giant City State Park, offers environmental workshops designed to provide learning experiences by means of active participation in outdoor activities.

"By experiencing the natural resources first-hand, participants become more aware of their interdependency and effect upon environmental quality," said Barb Oaks, who served as a public relations intern for Touch of Nature during the summer.

"During the summer months there were several camps designed specifically for the handicapped, as well as classes on emergency medical training, which enable the participants to be eligible for certification," Oaks said.

The goal of Touch of Nature, she said, is "to serve a wide variety of populations with the kind of programs they desire. The emphasis is on learning while doing."

Fall programs will include weekend trips, river canoeing, rock climbing, rappelling, cave exploration and extended backpacking trips to Big Bend National Park in Texas and the Grand Canyon. There will be winter backpacking trips and cross country skiing in Wisconsin. Also there will be sailing trips to Florida.

Parade to lead off Applefest

By Kathy Freehill
Student Writer

The Murphysboro Apple Festival has grown into a major Southern Illinois event since its beginning in 1952. This year's festival, set for Sept. 14 to 17, is expected to be the largest in the history of the Apple Festival.

Originally the festival was created as an alternative to a county fair and as something to attract attention to Murphysboro. A parade and contests - celebrating the apple harvest - are festival centerpieces.

"The Apple Festival is held at the time of the apple harvest. We feel it's good for Murphysboro. It is certainly accepted by the people of the area," said Marion Nash, who has served as chairman of the Apple Festival committee for 29 years.

The parade typically features marching bands, competition floats from area schools and organizations. This year's parade is based on the theme "The Wonderful World of Motion Pictures." It will march through Murphysboro with Gov. James R. Thompson tentatively scheduled to serve as parade marshal.

Also riding in the parade will be the Murphysboro Apple Festival prince, princess and queen. Contestants from the Southern Illinois apple producing counties of Jackson, Randolph and Union will compete for the honorary titles and prizes.

Nash said Captain Apple-peace, mascot, guardian and real life symbol of the Apple Festival, will make an appearance at the parade.

Apple seed popping, apple peeling, apple pie and apple butter making contests keep the spirit of the festival alive and contribute to its popularity.

In the apple peeling contest, the peels must be at least 6 inches long and a quarter-inch wide to count. To win, a contestant must peel the most apples in three minutes.

To win at seed popping, a contestant chooses a "winning seed" from a bowl of seeds that have been soaked in natural juices. The seed is placed between the thumb and forefinger and squeezed. The seed that pops the farthest is the winner.

There will also be a fiddling and banjo contest.

Dream can be reality; travel and study abroad

By Scott Bigham
Student Writer

The idea of visiting London pubs, Vienna opera houses, Paris boutiques or the Swiss Alps is a dream for many college students. At SIUC, the International Services Office can help make that dream become a reality.

Almost anywhere in Europe the opportunity exists for work-study programs, according to Tom Saville, international opportunities adviser. His office is available to help students interested in working, traveling or studying abroad.

Saville works closely with the Council on International Education Exchange, a consortium of colleges and universities active in international education.

The CIEE helps students get around bureaucratic barriers to working abroad and is in charge of getting volunteers for work camps in Eastern and Western Europe. These camps enable students to work directly for the host country, doing things such as building flood barriers on the North Sea, supervising children in Swedish play camps and restoring folk architecture in Czechoslovakia, according to the CIEE.

The CIEE also annually prints "The Whole World Handbook," which lists the names and addresses of the organizations in each country that are in charge of student exchange programs.

"It is the best single thing to read," said Saville. "It covers work-study and travel and gives a lot of leads."

He said the book is sold in many bookstores and is also available at Morris Library.

Saville also suggested that interested students thumb through the "Student Travel Catalog," which is available at his office. The catalog gives information about passports, visas, health requirements, customs regulations, insurance and money.

The catalog also instructs students how to obtain an International Student Identification Card, which enables them to receive discounts on many services in Europe, such as air and train travel and lodging at youth hostels.

Saville said that some financial assistance is available to students who travel, work or study abroad.

Business fraternity wins top award fourth time

By Dan Devine
Staff Writer

For the second straight year, the SIU-C professional business fraternity has been named No. 1 in the nation.

Dennis Eisenhower, president of Alpha Kappa Psi, said the announcement was made early in July and the award will be presented Thursday at the national convention of business fraternities this week in Detroit, Mich.

The national chapter makes the award based on points accumulated in five categories — finance, general administration, membership, professional programs and scholarship. Alpha Kappa Psi received the maximum number of points in each area, Eisenhower said.

"It says a lot for the chapter," said Eisenhower, vice president of the fraternity for much of the year and the person responsible for keeping track of the points the chapter earned.

After being surprised by their 1982 triumph, Eisenhower said the fraternity's 35 members tried hard to repeat the win for the second time in the chapter's history. SIU-C also won in 1971 and 1972.

"This year we hoped and planned for it. We were pretty positive — I won't say cocky. We're hoping to get it next year, too."

SIU-C outscored more than 100 chapters nationwide to win the award. Its members, all business, agribusiness or accounting majors, earned 21,000 points in each of the five categories, but had to settle for a total of 100,000, the maximum number allowed.

Eisenhower said points were awarded in finance for the care and skill a chapter took in preparing its budget and keeping accurate records. In general administration, points were given for secretarial functions such as keeping minutes of meetings and handling mail. Points for membership were based on the number of members recruited as a percentage of the total potential recruits.

By sponsoring such activities as a "life after graduation" seminar and participating in career enhancement week, Alpha Kappa Psi did well in the professional programs division. The fraternity also hosted the Midwest Regional convention and participated in the March of Dimes Walk America, the Student Directory distribution, fundraising for Harold McFarlin and tours of St. Louis businesses.

Alpha Kappa Psi members averaged close to a 3.0 grade point average to earn the maximum number of points for scholarship.

At the close of the scoring year, which runs July to June, each fraternity sent its performance evaluation reports to national headquarters. There, points were tabulated and standings announced. Except for announcements of the SIU-C chapter had won, Eisenhower said that the official standings had not been released yet.

Eisenhower said the SIU-C chapter, which lost many members to graduation, would be actively recruiting new members. Its fall rush will be at 7 p.m. August 31 in Student Center Ballroom A.

Carbondale man robbed at bank

A 20-year-old Colombian man was robbed at gunpoint Sunday afternoon in the First National Bank & Trust Co. parking lot, 509 S. University Ave., Carbondale police said.

Jesus E. Arango, of Carbondale, was robbed at 1:43 p.m. of $100 cash when two black males sitting in an older model car called to him as he left the auto-teller window of the bank.

The police said Arango told them he was an SIU-C student, but the Admissions and Records Office said there was no registration form on file for Arango.

Arango told police that the two men pointed a gun at him and demanded his money. He then requested help from two white females walking by but was unable to explain the incident well in English.

The police are requesting that the two females contact them since they might be able to help identify the suspects.

PUBLIC NOTICE DIRECTORY INFORMATION SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY AT CARBONDALE

Under the University policy on the Release of Student Information and Public Law 93380 as amended, the University may make accessible to any person external to the University "directory information" concerning a student, unless that student notifies the Office of Admissions and Records that he or she objects to the release of such information. Directory information is considered to be public in nature and will be released at any time upon request without prior approval from the student. Notice is therefore given that directory information listed below in respect to each student enrolled at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale will be available to any person unless the student files in writing with the Office of Admissions and Records a request to restrict release of student directory information to external sources.

The University has designated as directory information the following student information:

Student name.
Student local address and telephone number.
Student home address and telephone number.
Date of birth.
Current term hours carried.
Classification (freshman, sophomore, etc.)
Academic unit.
Major.
Dates of attendance.
Degrees and honors earned and dates.
The most previous educational agency or institution attended prior to enrollment at Southern Illinois University.
Participation in officially recognized activity or sport and weight, height and pictures of members of athletic teams.
Picture.

Any student enrolled for the Fall Semester who does not wish to have released any or all of the above listed items of information should contact in person, the Office of Admissions and Records, Woody Hall by Thursday, Sept. 1, 1983. Students who elect to restrict release of student information must sign a statement to that effect. The restriction on the release of student information will be valid until September 1, 1984, and must be renewed annually each Fall Semester.

Students who wish to verify or correct the existing student directory information must also contact in person, the Office of Admissions and Records, Woody Hall.

Gus Bode remains tradition at SIU-C

Published Sept. 26, 1983

No reference book lists him, no magazine writes features on him, no motion picture tells his story...but SIU's Gus Bode is SOMEBODY IMPORTANT.

Who is he?...what does he look like...is he a student...IS IT A HF? The registrars office does not have anyone listed under the name of Gus Bode. No one...absolutely no one...knows who the mysterious witty fellow (or fellowess) is.

The most important and really the only thing we know about Gus is that he has talents. He can write, print and type his name...even carve it...in various shapes, colors and sizes. On the walls around campus, in town and probably even in Timbucktoo, his sign is as evident as Zorro's.

Another characteristic of Gus' is his satirical ability as evidenced by "Gus Bode Says" for the Egyptian such as his latest: "Putting a nickle in the campus coke machines is a calculated risk."

Gus, more prompt in writing quips than lessons, always gets his comments to the Egyptian before deadline on every issue, but no one has ever seen the popular little creature. His jokes can be found on Tuesdays and Fridays anywhere from an empty coffee cup to being pinned to the ceiling.

Why Gus ever started writing for the Egyptian is as much a mystery as the individual himself. His tirade of jokes, jests and blunt truths began appearing at the office sometime in 1956. First only a few jokes appeared at infrequent times but all the staffers have learned to rely on his contributions. If Gus does not want to be seen and if he wishes to remain a figure behind the scenes...then that is his business.

From Pages of The Past

THERE'S STILL TIME...

...to apply for financial aid for the upcoming Fall and Spring semesters if you haven't already done so.

Pick up an ACT/FFS at the Office of SW&FA, fill it out and mail it in to apply for the Pell Grant, ISSC (if you're a first time applicant), and student work.

Pick up a Guaranteed Student Loan application at your bank or lending institution, fill it out and bring it to Student Work and Financial Assistance.

Burglary suspects get continuance

Three men arrested in connection with a burglary ring believed responsible for the theft of upwards of $250,000 in merchandise were granted a continuance in Jackson County circuit court.

The continuance was granted today by Circuit Judge William South when Guice Long, attorney for Boyd R. Clover could not attend the hearing. Attorney Mark Hemrock, counsel for Kieth A. Kimmel, also requested the continuance on grounds that he has not yet received all police reports related to the matter. Clover, 20, of DeSoto, Kimmel, 23, of Murphysboro, and Tommy P. Stewart, 24, of Murphysboro were charged with burglary and theft by possession, following their arrests by SIUC police August 9.

The Jackson County Sheriff's Department has recovered an estimated $25,000 in merchandise in the case, including a large number of firearms, appliances and household items. The total amount of merchandise involved is likely to exceed $250,000, said Sheriff William Kilquist.

Kilquist said the investigation is continuing and there is a possible link to similar burglaries in Franklin, Union and Williamson Counties.

Clover and Kimmel remain in custody under bonds of $25,000 and $10,000 respectively. Stewart is free on a $10,000 bond.

Students try luck at casino night

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

Thirty-five hundred new and returning students converged upon the Student Center Saturday night to Welcomefest, a casino night sponsored by the Inter-Greek Council.

"Welcomefest provides an opportunity for new and continuing students to meet SIU-C's administration, faculty and Greek system," according to Curtis McDaniel, Welcomefest chairman.

Welcomefest has been sponsored by the Greeks since the mid-1960s, according to Pat McNeil, assistant director of the Office of Student Development. This year's Welcomefest featured games such as blackjack, poker, dice, craps, over and under and a horserace game at which students try to win play money. They may then buy prizes which are auctioned at the end of the night. The gambling took place in the Roman Room while Music-in-Motion and dancing were held in the Oasis cafeteria.

Prizes this year included a television, a watch, a clock, school supplies, along with others all donated by local merchants and the Greeks, according to McDaniel.

Robert Gatelis, a sophomore in business administration who won $10,000 at one horse race as his long shot came in, said "Welcomefest is more fun each year. It seems I win more."

"The music and the dancing were great," said Rob Court, a freshman in electrical engineering.

Many SIU-C administrators were in attendance, including President Albert Somit, Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, Housing Director Sam Rinnella, and athletics directors Lew Hartzog and Charlotte West. Some administrators were dealers for the casino games.

$200,000 awarded for coal research

The Department of Thermal and Environmental Engineering has received a $200,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Energy to support basic research on the desulfurization of coal.

Charles B. Muchmore, professor in the Department of Thermal and Environmental Engineering said that the aim of the project is to increase basic knowledge of the chemical reactions that take place during desulfurization of high-sulfur Illinois coal.

STU-C engineers will study the properties of chemical compounds formed during the desulfurization process which involves subjecting coal to pressures and temperatures above the critical point at which solvent vapors and liquids can't be distinguished from each other.

"Our objective is to develop a better understanding of the chemical reactions and intermediate products formed during that process," Muchmore said.

AIR FORCE ALWAYS NEEDS MORE LEADERS.

We're looking for pilots... navigators... missileers... engineers... math majors... doctors... scientists... journalists... and more. And the Air Force ROTC program is a great way to get into a skill like one of these which can help you improve your leadership ability and your professional competence.

As a commissioned officer in the Air Force, you can be proud of the role you play in your community and the contribution you make to your country's security. You can know that you're doing something of importance, something with responsibility.

The Air Force ROTC program offers a way to help you achieve these goals. As an AFROTC cadet, you'll learn about leadership, management, and more. You'll learn about benefits of being an officer later on, like an excellent salary, medical and dental care, housing and food allowances, and 30 days of vacation with pay each year. You'll discover a whole new world open to you in the Air Force. And you can get these through AFROTC.

Look into it right away. You'll be glad you did.

CASIO NOW OFFERS STUDENT AID.

We at Casio figured you could use a little help this semester (not to mention a few extra bucks). So we're offering a $5 rebate on our FX-98 and FX-910 solar powered scientific calculators, which regularly sell for $29.95.

The FX-910 is a wallet sized unit with 48 scientific functions. The FX-98 is credit card size with 42 scientific functions.

Both feature an 8 digit mantissa with 2 digit exponent.

Both feature fractional calculations (a function not found on many comparable units). So now you can work with fractions without having to convert to decimals.

And since both units incorporate a powerful solar cell that can operate in very low light, they'll not only save you time and energy, they'll save you, too, ever having to buy batteries.

The FX-98 and FX-910 also come with a free application manual, "Strategies for Scientific Calculating," which will save you work by showing you shortcuts for using your calculator.

So if you think you could use a little student aid this semester, take advantage of our $5 rebate offer. And bring a Casio to class.

CASIO

Hunter expects winning season although team lacks experience

By Sherry Chisenhall
Sports Editor

Faced with one of her toughest schedules ever, plus the loss of the core of last year's lineup, volleiball Coach Debbie Hunter has a surprising amount of confidence in this year's fairly inexperienced team.

Erasied from the roster are AIAW All-American Sonya Locke, a middle blocker who led the team in almost every statistical category, Locke's counterpart, Bonnie Norrenberns, and setter Barb Clark.

While the 1983 squad is young, Hunter believes the team still has the strength to improve on last year's third-place conference finish.

Leading the way will be Hunter's only senior, outside hitter Mary Maxwell, who is possibly the steadiest and best all-around player on the court for SIUC. Maxwell led the team in digs the past two years and her 86 service aces last season tied her for team high and put her in the top five in the conference.

Also returning is middle blocker Chris Boyd, a 5-foot-6 junior who is about the most consistent Saluki at the net. Last season Boyd's 240 attack percentage was third highest on the team, and she also recorded 31 block solos and 64 block assists.

A boost to Hunter's confidence is the maturing of last year's recruits, probably the best group she has ever brought to SIUC.

Sophomore Lisa Cummins could be a pivotal figure in how the Salukis fare this season. Cummins will be called to fill Clark's shoes and take over setting responsibilities, but her health is crucial to the team because Hunter would have to do some reaching in the roster to get a back-up setter.

As a secondary setter, Cummins saw considerable playing time last season with the Salukis' 6-2 offense and gained some experience with the team's 5-1 attack as well. Invited to compete as a freshman in the National Sports Festival during the summer, Cummins has been touted by Hunter as potentially one of the top setters in the Midwest.

Another major factor in SIUC's fate this year will be the performance of juco transfer Linda Sanders, a senior with two years of eligibility remaining. According to Hunter, Sanders is the most powerful player on the Salukis' court, more so than Locke.

Sanders will probably start as outside hitter, but she also has the speed and versatility to play the middle, Hunter said. Hunter said she considers the Boyd-Sanders combination to be potentially more devastating than last year's Locke-Norrenberns duo, which was one of the best in the region.

Chris Boyd

Possibly as important as Sanders to the Saluki cause will be sophomore Darlene Hogue, an outside hitter who showed improvement in serving and backcourt play during the open season last spring.

Marla Swoffler, a 6-foot-1 sophomore, will probably be used as a blocking specialist by Hunter, to take advantage of her height and jump reach.

Jill Broker, a 5-3 junior, returns as a defensive specialist for SIUC. Broker led the team last season in service reception and service efficiency, committing only three service errors in 104 attempts.

Three newcomers should also add some depth to Hunter's lineup.

Sophomore Patty Niemeyer didn't play collegiately last fall, but had a strong open season with her USVBA team, according to Hunter. Considered the most versatile of the rookies, Niemeyer is a probable starting outside hitter. She has four years of high school playing time, during which she was team MVP twice. Full conference three years and given honorable mention to the Chicago Tribune's all-area team.

Two freshmen capable of playing middle blocker or outside hitter are Pat Nicholson, from Waukegan, and Janice Tremblay, from Montreal, Canada. Both are expected to challenge for part-time starting positions by midseason.

A pleasant surprise for Hunter has been the progress of Carbondale freshman Donna Tindall. Hunter said Tindall is a potential right side blocker or attacker who is improving rapidly and will challenge for playing time.

A major obstacle for the Salukis this season will be their demanding schedule, which includes the Saluki, Texas-Arlington and Illinois invitations, a return to the Brigham Young University Preview and international exhibitions with the University of Ottawa.

Hunter said she still expects the team to finish between .600 and .700, despite the rigorous schedule. The coach's foremost goal, though, is the GCAC crown.

Although the team hasn't yet set season goals, a better conference finish than last year has to be in mind. Last year the Salukis took third, behind champion Illinois State and runner-up Southwest Missouri. Illinois State is the favorite to repeat, op honors this year, but Hunter isn't counting her young team out.

"We aren't using youth and inexperience as an excuse," she said. "We'll be facing reputable teams from day one, but our attitude is basically 'to be patient and not expect miracles quickly.'"

Hunter's team opens its season with an Alumni match at Davies gym Sept. 2, 7:30 p.m.

Saluki golfer qualifies for pro tournament

SIUC golfer Lisa Rottman-Bremer, a senior from Metropolis, qualified Monday for a Ladies Pro Golf Association tournament to be played in Springfield Sept. 3-5.

Three amateurs were selected for the LPGA tournament, from a qualifying round played at The Rail Golf Course in Springfield. Bremer claimed the third slot with an eight-over-par 80, finishing behind Illinois State's Karen Schulthes, who carded a 76, and medalist Caroline Gowan, a senior from the University of Georgia, who fired a two-over-par 74.

The three will compete in The Rail Charity Classic in two weeks.

Auld returns Most of lineup, Says team ready

Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

The Saluki women's tennis team opens its 1983 fall season Sept. 9 in quest of its third consecutive 20-plus win season and second straight Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference title.

Despite losing No. 1 singles player Lisa Warren to graduation, the netters return this year with an experienced cast, made up largely of sophomores and juniors from last year's squad that went 25-9 and gave Coach Judy Auld her 10th career coaching victory. Women's tennis at SIU-C has progressed nicely under Auld's tutelage since she took over coaching duties in 1975. She hopes to continue that pattern of steady progress by achieving two goals in 1983-84.

"We want another 20-match win season, and we want to repeat as conference champions," said Auld. "It'll be tough because of our tougher schedule but it's possible."

Auld will be looking to returnees Alessandra Molinari, Mary Pat Kramer and Heidi Eastman to provide leadership this year. All three have a chance to emerge as the No. 1 singles player, according to Auld.

Molinari, last year's No. 2 singles player, appears to have the best shot at the No. 1 one spot this fall. She captured conference titles in singles and doubles last year and posted a 32-12 singles record. The six-footer from Stockholm, Sweden, has been competing in tournaments in Italy over the summer, an indication of her dedication to improving her game, Auld said.

"Sandra has worked hard on her game," said Auld. "She's strong mentally and will not beat herself. She's a strong factor in singles."

Mary Pat Kramer filled the No. 3 singles position last year and will challenge Molinari for the top spot this season. As a freshman last year, she recorded a 31-9 won-lost mark in singles.

"Mary Pat will be a more well-rounded player this year," said Auld. "She's always been a good baseline player, but she's been working on her net play."

Eastman, tabbed by Auld as the "best athlete" on the team,

Two swingers

Link Terry Drafi Korn, left, follows through on her shot as halfback Jeanine Janos turns to follow the action during Saturday's scrimmage. SIU-C field hockey coach Julie Illner said the squad has "a good start on the basics, but we've still got lots of raw edges."

brings an aggressive serve and volley game to the team. She has discovered that she can play a ground game as well, according to Auld, and is a threat for one of the first three positions this fall.

Returning as the only senior is Stacy Sherman, a GCAC singles finalist last year who won nearly twice as many matches as she lost in the lower end of the lineup.

Last season's No. 6 player, Maureen Harney, returns after piling up a 39-8 won-lost mark in singles play last year. A baseliner, Harney has shown a knack for fighting back in matches in which she is down.

"You can never count her out of a match," said Auld of the walk-on.

Amanda Allen, Kris Stauffer and Suzanne Garoian all saw limited action last year and will compete for the sixth singles position if Harney moves up in the lineup.

Kathy Harney will join her sister Maureen as a walk-on freshman. According to Auld, the younger Harney is a strong doubles player and could see considerable action in one of the doubles positions.

The netters open the fall season at the Indiana State Quadrangular Sept. 9 against Western Illinois, Illinois State and Indiana State.

Are they the Choke City White Sox?

Who can this be knocking on the World Series door? Can it be a Chicago baseball team? No, this must be a dream.

Well Chicago fans, this isn't a dream. This is real. Because as the baseball season passes the three-quarters mark, the Chicago White Sox are 67-54 with an eight-game lead over the Kansas City Royals. But don't get all excited. I've lived in Chicago long enough to know what Choke City is all about.

What does choke city mean? To begin, look at the '32-83 Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League. They had me so excited that I was blowing off my studies and paying $2 to see them at Channel 1. They dumped St. Louis and Minnesota in the playoffs only to get whitewashed by Gretzky's Edmonton Oilers. That to me was Choke City.

How about the '78 Chicago Bears. Let's set the scene. Fourth down at the Viking's seven yard line. The game is tied between the Bears and the Vikings with about 20 seconds left. If the Bears win, they'll have a good chance to make it to the Super Bowl. So, the only logical thing to do is kick a field goal and win the game, right? To make a short story ever shorter, kicker Bob Thomas does the ultimate choke. He misses a measly 24-yard field goal, the game goes into overtime and the Bears lose. Choke City.

Lets look at the '83 Chicago Blitz. What a joke. Not a choke, but a joke. Up 34-17 in the fourth quarter against the Philadelphia Stars, George Allen's Blitz decide to play defense. To make a sad story even sadder, the Blitz give it away. Again, Choke City.

Of course, the most classic example is the '69 Cubs. This could be characterized as the ultimate choke. Up nine games in August, the bums couldn't win a lousy game. Even Ernie Banks was ready to throw his bat into the fireplace. Leo Durocher kept telling the press, "What do you want me to do? I'm only the manager!" Even my father, a die-hard Chicago Cubs fan who sits by the television every day just to get

From The
Press Box

George Pappas

aggravated watching the Cubs choke, was calling Wrigley Field to give Durocher advice. Now my father says at his restaurant longer, which keeps him away from the Cub telecasts. This keeps him sane. But what to do? The Mets won the division and the World Series. The Cubs were looking ahead to next year. Aren't they always?

But let's take a look at the White Sox. On a roll, hot to trot, you name it, they're doing it. Their pitching is the best in the league since the All-Star break. LaMarr Hoyt, Britt Burns, Floyd Bannister, Richard Dotson and Jerry Kosman are five good starters. With "Dirty" Dick Tidrow, Juan Agosto, Dennis Lamp and Salome Barojas in the pen, the Sox have an ace pitching staff. But the '69 Cubs had Fergie Jenkins, Bill Hands, Kenny Holtzman and Milt Pappas (no relation) starting with Phil Regan and Ted Abernathy in the pen and they still choked.

The Sox have Vance Law, Scott Fletcher, Julio Cruz and Tom Paciorek third to first. Ron Kittle, Rudy Law and Harold Baines in the outfield, designated hitter Greg Luzinski and catcher Carlton Fisk. They have Greg Walker, Jerry Hairston, Jerry Dybzinski and Gold-Glover Mike Squires as reserves. They have speed around the bases with Cruz and Rudy Law who both have over 50 stolen bases. This is most definitely a World Series team.

The Cubs had Ron Santo, Don Kessinger, Glen Beckert and Banks third to first. Billy Williams, Adolpho Phillips and Jimmy Hickman in the outfield with Randy Hundley behind the plate. They still choked.

Now, why am I comparing these two teams? Because both teams are high-caliber squads, with awesome hitting, tremendous pitching, and excellent defense in the Cub's case, satisfactory in the Sox'. But the Sox make that up with their speed around the bases. The Sox bench is more productive than the Cubs had. Maybe the difference will be the managing. Tony LaRussa is more daring and aggressive than Durocher ever was. Plus, the Sox' owners, Jerry Reinhardt and Eddie Einhorn, have deposited more money into the Sox than William Wrigley invested into his gum.

Let me be frank, but not Herman Franks. When you've lived in Choke City all your life, you learn to take the heart-breaks and be somewhat pessimistic. If the Sox do choke, I won't go off and cry like '69. I'll just sit back and be content that I live in Chicago — Choke City, USA.

Football scrimmages beat the heat

By Joe Paschen
Staff Writer

The Saluki football team held its first controlled scrimmage Saturday morning on the reflective green carpet of McAndrew Stadium. It was hot. How hot was it?

"It was so hot, we didn't know if we could even exist," head coach Ray Dempsey said Monday afternoon. "The first 36 plays of the scrimmage we speeded up the tempo. What I mean by that is, we hurried out of huddles and kept the ball moving. It's the first sign I had that we are in good condition."

Dempsey admits his team looks better than it did a year ago at this point. There have been just a few injuries to report after the first two weeks of pre-season practice sessions. One is the loss of veteran flanker back Javell Hexas of St. Louis. The senior dislocated his index finger during twice-a-day practices and could keep him out of most of the pre-season drills.

Two other disappointments are the absence of Steve Williams and Steve Meyer. Williams, a junior college transfer from California, had a shot at the defensive end position but opted to drop out of school. Meyer, a freshman tight-end, decided to give up the sport and concentrate on his studies this fall. Three other freshmen failed to report.

"We've had a few disappointments, but you realize going into any season there are going to be some," Dempsey said. "Overall our people returned in good physical condition and we're improving our skills daily."

The football team has been holding double practices prior to the opening of fall classes. They will hold single afternoon on-field sessions followed by evening meetings and at least two more major scrimmages before the Sept. 3 regular season opener at Western Illinois. There were several aspects of Saturday's scrimmage Dempsey was especially pleased about.

"The defense was snapping off the ball quickly which is important at this stage," Dempsey said. "The offense was able to move the ball well. The line protected (No. 1 quarterback Rick) Johnson and we saw some good performances from Brad Pilgard. He's made some big strides at offensive tackle." The 6-7, 260 senior was all-conference last season.

Walk-ons to meet

Pilgard's sidekick on the strong side of the offensive line, John Heitbrink, pulled a hamstring in his right thigh in the scrimmage, but Dempsey said the 6-6, 260 junior should be ready to practice by midweek.

Other individuals who played well in Saturday's scrimmage were running back Derrick Taylor and fullbacks Bruce Phibbs and last year's starter Corky Field. Field may be hampered some this week, because a tooth was knocked loose and is causing the junior bruiser considerable pain.

Defensive tackle Ed Norman and defensive end Mike Brascia were also said to have played well from the coaches viewpoints. Like Brascia and Norman, another player looking to replace an opening in the line-up is tight-end Richard Blackmon. The 6-1, 205 pound junior is said to have an early lead to nail down the tight-end position, although he's relieving a strong challenge from junior college transfer Carey Shephard.

Dempsey also had compliments for the work of veteran linebackers Fabray Collins and Granville Butler in the scrimmage.

The next scrimmage on tap for the Salukis is this Thursday evening at the DuQuoin High School field. Once this scrimmage is over the coaching staff expects to update their depth chart and have a better idea as to a starting line-up for the regular season and who would join the traveling squad. The NCAA allows a school to bring up to 60 players on non-conference trips. The Salukis usually go with 54.

Cubs fire Elia, name Fox manager

CHICAGO (AP) — General Manager Dallas Green, claiming the Chicago Cubs were not playing up to their "capabilities," Monday fired Manager Lee Elia and named veteran Charlie Fox his successor.

"I've always been a Lee Elia man but Lee, in my opinion, is not managing like I know he can," said Green. "It's a decision I'd prefer not to make, but it is time for a change."

Green took over the Cub organization as executive vice president and general manager prior to the 1982 season and his first move was to sign Elia to a three-year contract as his manager.

Elia, 46, guided the Cubs to a 73-89 record in 1982 and the team was 54-69 when he was fired.

Green indicated Elia might remain with the organization, a matter that should be clarified Tuesday, when Elia holds an official press conference.

Green insisted Fox is not an interim manager, but that his future with the club will be dictated by the way the Cubs finishes this season.

Fox, 61, was nurtured through the San Francisco Giants organization and managed the Giants from 1970 through 1974.

with the club winning its divisional title before losing the National League championship series to Pittsburgh in 1971.

His overall managing record with the Giants was 348-327.

Fox joined the Montreal Expos organization in 1976 as a scout and managed the Expos for the final month of that season. He became general manager and vice president of the Expos in 1977-78. He had been Montreal's director of minor-league scouting since 1979 before joining the Cubs last spring as a special consultant to Green.

Black Studies stress culture, understanding

By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

At a campus with a black student enrollment unequalled in Illinois outside Chicago, Black American Studies occupies a crucial position in the SIU-C community.

According to Locksley Edmondson, BAS coordinator, there is a continuing need for knowledge and understanding of the Black American experience.

The Black American Studies program offers courses that examine the history, politics and fine arts of black Americans. Although a bachelor's degree is not offered in BAS, students can receive a minor through the program.

As a non-major degree program, BAS conducts no formal advisement, and therefore relies on other advisers and word of mouth to bring BAS to students' attention. This has presented problems in the past in attracting students to its classes. However, Edmondson said enrollment has stabilized.

The Black American Studies program was originated in 1968 as an autonomous unit. In 1978, BAS, along with the social welfare and community development programs, became a part of the Division of Social and Community Services.

Edmondson said that BAS courses provide an excellent complement to coursework in the social welfare and community development programs.

Professionals in those fields frequently deal with situations "where a background in minority affairs would be quite useful," he said.

The presence of BAS in the Division of Social and Community Services makes the program unique because other such programs throughout the country are tied in with liberal arts, history or sociology departments.

"We feel we have a dual identity at BAS as part of the Division of Social and Community Services, with a wider responsibility to the University," Edmondson said.

"In a nation with an 11 percent black minority population, liberal arts students should have a good background in racial and ethnic issues."

The Division of Social and Community Services has recently had a master's degree program in social work approved.

"The last six months have been critical in terms of seeking to clarify and protect our identity in our division, whose preoccupation is delivery and implementation of the graduate program in social work," Edmondson said.

"We in BAS have felt a doubt at all that our interests and presence could help to enhance effectiveness of the graduate program in social work, especially bearing on critical minority issues," he said. "What we could not entertain is submerging our identity in that process."

The activities of the BAS staff are not limited to teaching and research.

"We often engage in informal and unrecognized work in counseling and assisting students on a purely individual level," Edmondson said.

praised by SWCD president Roger Rowe for his constant support for soil and water conservation legislation.

The award was presented to Richmond at the Illinois Association of Soil and Water Conservation District's Annual Conference in Springfield.

Reception Aug. 30 for largest class of retirees ever at SIU

The largest class of retirees in SIU-C history, numbering about 100, will gather at the Student Center Aug. 30 for a going away reception and dinner to be hosted by President Albert Somit.

The reception will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the dinner will start at 7 p.m.

Somit and Chancellor Kenneth A. Shaw, guest of honor, will speak during after-dinner ceremonies. SIU-C's vice president will present retirees for presentation of certificates by Somit. Master of ceremonies will be Joseph M. Yusko, director of University Risk Management.

Faculty and administrative-professional staff retirees include:

— John D. Barnes, coordinator at Student Work and Financial Assistance, who joined the SIU-C staff in 1966

— Elizabeth V. Bork, instructor in library services, came to SIU-C in 1967.

— Issac P. Brackett, chairman of the Speech Pathology and Audiology Department since its formation in 1957, has been on the faculty since 1951. Once an assistant to President Delyte Morris, he is also a former system vice president and served as SIU-C vice president under Robert G. Layer.

— Melvin S. Brooks, associate professor of sociology, began his tenure at SIU-C in 1956 and is known for his research in problems of education among migrant workers as well as in family stress and behavior.

— Joseph Chu, assistant director for Regional Research and Service is the former director of International Education and former assistant director for special programs. He joined the SIU-C faculty in 1965.

— George L. Criminger, special assistant in Personnel Services, was SIU-C's legislative liaison officer with the Illinois General Assembly for 15 years until 1960. He began his work with the University in 1957.

— James A. Diefenbeck, professor of philosophy, came to the University in 1950.

— Robert H. Dreher, associate professor in the School of Law, is a specialist in criminal law, correctional law and education. He directs the SIU-C clinical law program and was 1980 winner of the Illinois Department of Aging's certificate of achievement for developing and teaching a course on legal needs of the elderly.

— Leroy L. Dreyer, researcher for Research Development and Administration, came to SIU-C from the University of Illinois, where he had been an instructor in electron microscopy engineering.

— C.C. Franklin Jr., associate professor of physical education, came to SIU-C in 1948 as department chairman and assistant professor. A former academic adviser for the College of Education, he organized the SIU Judo Team and taught the sport.

— Edwin C. Galbreath, professor of zoology, has been with SIU-C since 1957. A paleontologist and "fossil hunter," he was formerly an assistant professor of anatomy at the University of Kansas.

— Roderick D. Gordon, professor of music, is a physicist and music educator with a specialty in acoustics. He came to SIU-C in 1963.

— Mary Jane Grizzell, assistant professor of music, is a teacher and concert pianist. She joined the faculty after having taught at Murray State University and Stephens College.

— Elbert H. Hadley, professor of chemistry and biochemistry, came to SIU-C in 1947. He was the first dean of the College of Science and also served as assistant and associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. He developed a new system of copper electroplating that was patented by the SIU Foundation.

— John F. Hayward, professor and chairman of the Religious Studies Department, joined the faculty in 1968. He converted religious studies from a program to a department with undergraduate majors and minors.

— Elizabeth C. Hillegas, academic adviser for General Studies, came to SIU-C in 1966 from Columbia University libraries.

— C. William Horrell, professor of cinema and photography, joined the SIU-C faculty in 1949 after owning and operating a film studio in his hometown of Anna. He was the organizer of the SIU Photographic Service, which he directed until 1958.

— Loren B. Jung, professor of higher education, is the former director of Institutional Research and Studies. He began his SIU career in 1961 at Edwardsville, where he was a lecturer, assistant to the vice president for business affairs and assistant director of Institutional Research. He came to SIU-C in 1965.

— Roland Keene, professor and assistant dean of the College of Education, began his SIU-C career in 1958. He served as an assistant to SIU President Delyte Morris and also was assistant to several vice presidents, deans and directors.

— Anna Carol Fuhs Khattab, professor in vocational education studies and chairman of the Department of Home Economics Education, was winner of the 1982 Great Teacher Award given by the SIU-C Alumni Association.

— Jacob W. King, assistant director of Alumni Services, came to SIU-C as a field representative in 1955 after working in that capacity for the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation.

— John E. King, professor and chairman of the Department of Higher Education, is former president of Emporia State University in Kansas and the University of Wyoming. He joined the SIU-C faculty in 1967.

— Robert W. Kingsbury, associate professor of music, is director of choral activities in the School of Music. In 1963, he was named most popular faculty member, and in 1968, he received the SIU Foundation's recognition award for services to students, the University and the cause of education.

— John R. LeFevre, professor of health education and 26-year coach of the SIU-C men's tennis team, joined SIU-C in 1955. A former tennis pro, LeFevre was SIU-C coach when the team won the national championship in 1964.

— William M. Lewis, professor in zoology and director of the Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory, developed a method of growing channel catfish in wire mesh cages which revolutionized catfish farming. He was chairman of the Zoology Department from 1973 to 1980.

McLeod Playhouse to open Sept. 29

By Paula J. Finlay
Staff Writer

The success of last year's joint effort of the School of Music and the Theater Department for the McLeod Playhouse season was so successful that the two groups will combine forces again this year.

The School of Music and Theater department of theater cooperatively produced a six-show season last year for the first time during an academic year, expanding the regular four-show theater schedule.

"It was really quite successful," said Pat Arey, McLeod Theater business manager. "Our season tickets and sponsorships doubled."

And it was really quite natural for the two groups to work together, she said.

"It wasn't really anything new for us," she said. "We'd worked together in the summer and had been doing that since 1973."

Six staged productions, performed in McLeod Theater in the Communications Building, comprise the McLeod Playhouse season.

The season begins with William Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing," which will run Sept. 29 through Oct. 2.

This comedy centers around Don Pedro and his friends, Claudio and Benedick, two young Italian noblemen who Pedro tries to help find lovers.

When the three arrive in Messina, young Claudio falls in love with the governor's daughter, Hero. Don Pedro tries to help his friend by disguising himself and wooing Hero for him.

Benedick, on the other hand, is a confirmed and bitter bachelor not about to enter into matrimony and Governor Leonato's niece, Beatrice, is equally opposed to men and marriage. Don Pedro, assisted by Hero, Claudio, and the governor, tries to bring the two together.

"Much Ado About Nothing" will be directed by Calvin MacLean, department of theater faculty member.

The second show of the season, Lanford Wilson's "Fifth of July," has been hailed as a major work of the contemporary American theater. A group of former student activists at Berkley gather to recall their college days and the result is alternately funny and moving. "Fifth of July" will run Oct. 20-23 and will be directed by George Pinney, faculty member in the Theater Department.

"Hans Christian Andersen," a musical by Frank Loesser, will be presented Dec. 1-4. The story, based on Andersen's life, mingles the fairy tales of "Thumbelina," "The Ugly Duckling," "The King's New Clothes," and "The Little Mermaid," bringing to life the world of make-believe.

Mark Rabin, a graduate student in directing, will direct "Hans Christian Andersen" in partial fulfillment of his master's degree in fine arts.

The first show of the spring semester will be "A Moon for the Misbegotten," which will run Feb. 2-5.

The production, written by four-time Pulitzer prize winner Eugene O'Neil, gives the account of a man and woman who have given up their hopes and dreams for the future and come together for comfort and companionship under a yellow moon.

"Moon for the Misbegotten" will be directed by Judith Lyons, faculty member in the Theater Department.

Johann Strauss's opera "Die Fledermaus" will be presented March 1-4. The opera centers around a flirtatious aristocratic couple, Baron von Eisenstein and his wife Rosalinda. Rosalinda encourages a man to serenade her to discourage her husband's philandering, and the Baron is ordered to jail for hitting him. Enroute to prison, the Baron becomes infatuated with a masked lady at a masquerade ball. His wife who mischievously leads him on. Their maid, who is at the ball disguised as an opera singer, entrances the police chief, who woos her by pretending to be director of the Paris opera. Mike Blum will direct "Die Fledermaus" and Mike Hanes will conduct the orchestra. Both are faculty members in the School of Music. Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" will run April 26-29 as the final show of the season.

"Blithe Spirit" will be directed by Cindy Totten, a graduate student in directing, in partial fulfillment of her master's degree in fine arts.

Season tickets for the McLeod Playhouse season will go on sale Monday, 29. Season tickets for the Friday and Saturday night performances will be $22. Tickets for the Thursday night and Sunday afternoon performances will be $18. The Thursday through Saturday shows will begin at 8 p.m., and the Sunday matinee will begin at 2 p.m. Individual tickets will go on sale Sept. 19, and prices will be $4 for the Thursday and Sunday performances and $5 for the Friday and Saturday performances.

— Alfred Lit, professor of psychology, came to SIU-C in 1961 to develop a visual perception processes lab and to establish an engineering psychology lab as part of the graduate program in industrial psychology.

— Nella Loughery, academic adviser for the College of Business and Administration, came to SIU-C in 1969.

— Paul J. Loughery, associate director of Comprehensive Planning and Design, came to SIU-C in 1962 from private practice.

— John J. McDermott, director of the Labor Institute, began working for SIU-C in 1956. He has headed the Labor Institute since it was formed in 1958. McDermott is also an assistant professor of economics and labor relations at STC.

— William E. O'Brien, professor of recreation, is also an official for the National Football League. He has been chairman of the Recreation Department since 1970. O'Brien came to SIU-C in 1948. He has served as assistant and head coach for football, basketball and baseball.

— Kathryn A. Power, lecturer in mathematics, received a master's degree in mathematics from SIU-E.

— Davis Pratt, lecturer in Comprehensive Planning and Design, was one of the so-called "ITT Gang" members — faculty alumni of the Illinois Department of Technology — who built the foundations of SIU-C's old design department. He joined the faculty in 1957.

— William E. Simeone, professor of English and English Department chairman, is a former president of the University Senate. He came to the University in 1960. He has also served as dean of the Graduate School.

— Robert W. Stokes, University photographer and director of the University Photographic Service, began his career with SIU-C in 1951.

— Jane Tierney, professional placement counselor with the Career Planning and Placement Center, started as a faculty assistant at SIU-C in 1950.

— Doris Turner, academic adviser for Curriculum Instruction and Media, joined the faculty in 1947 and is a former assistant dean of women.

— Thomas J. Watson, bursar, came to SIU-C in 1953 as assistant auditor and was named bursar the following year.

— Glenn E. Wills, conference coordinator for Continuing Education, came to SIU-C in 1959 as supervisor of adult education.

— Walter J. Wills, professor of agribusiness economics, came to SIU-C in 1956. He is the 1979 recipient of the Faculty Service Award.

— Joseph C. Wilson, professor of mathematics, came to SIU-C in 1957. He conducted math research at the Army's Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville.

Job training plan OK'd

The Local Job Training Plan for the counties of Franklin, Jackson, Jefferson, Perry and Williamson (Service Delivery Area No. 25) was reviewed and approved by the Private Industry Council at a meeting held Aug. 11 in Mt. Vernon.

In similar action, the county board chairmen of the five counties approved the plan for submission to the State Department of Commerce and Community Affairs Friday.

The council, in prior action, had chosen Illinois Farmers

Union-CETA to be the grant recipient and program administrator for the $1.4 million training program. Greater Egypt Regional Planning and Development Commission will provide the planning support and council liaison services.

The Job Training Partnerships Act is the federal legislation that replaces the CETA program.

Copies of the plan are available for public review at each county courthouse in the five counties.

Professor to head film group

Richard M. Blumenberg, a professor of cinema and photography, will take over in January as president of the University Film and Video Association.

He will succeed Timothy J. Lyons, chairman of the Cinema and Photography Department.

Blumenberg has been with SIU-C since 1970. He specializes in the teaching of scriptwriting and is the author of an introductory textbook in cinema aesthetics. He is a frequent judge at the Athens International Film Festival.

He was program chairman for the association's 1982 conference. The association is made up of film and television teachers, students and practitioners.

Construction of new library halted by appropriation delay

Published Jan. 4, 1952

Part of a plan to convert a 75-year-old state teachers college, now Southern Illinois University, into a full-fledged university system has taken form in the growth and development of an advancing library service.

Although Southern is known to have the largest and most rapidly growing library south of Springfield in the state of Illinois, the most urgent need of the library is a new building.

The library is now housed in a nearly 50-year-old stone and brick building of neo-Romanesque style. This building was partially condemned as unsafe by the State Division of Architecture and Engineering in 1948.

Because of the crowded condition for library storage and study space for students, about 75 percent of the book load had to be removed to a large quonset hut near the men's gymnasium and to the basement of the women's dormitory. This has resulted in high service expenses and delays in circulation deliveries.

Plans have been completed by an architectural staff in Chicago, headed by Joseph F. Rooton, state architect, for two units of a new library building. The first unit, estimated at a cost of $3 million, will be constructed to provide for the later construction of vertical additions to the building. Unit one will consist of first, second, and basement floors. Unit two is to be constructed at a much later date. It will consist of four stories and a penthouse.

The actual building progress has been delayed because of an inadequate appropriation by the state legislature for construction. Although the legislature appropriated funds for the construction of the first unit during the 1949-51 biennium, the contract could not be let and construction had to be postponed.

The appropriation was withheld since the building could not be completed on the proposed appropriation.

It is hoped, however, that the 1953 legislature will make the necessary re-appropriation for the library building. The building would probably then be begun in fall of 1953. An approximate 18-24 months minimum construction time was estimated by Dr. Robert H. Muller, director of libraries here at Southern.

The contract drawings and specifications for the library building, which were completed in October, 1950, call for a flexibly arranged modular building with supporting concrete columns, slab floors, and curtain walls which are built independently of the structure and moveable. It will provide 145,000 square feet of floor area.

Free-standing stack ranges will be able to accommodate 350,000 volumes; an 1,200 seats will be provided in reading areas. The building will be completely air-conditioned, sound-treated, and lighted by means of low fluorescent tubes over louvers ceilings on the first floor and recessed troffer fixtures in the basement and on the second floor.

The general arrangement of the library building will be by broad subject divisions, with no segregated stack area. Space will be provided for audiovisual facilities, a photo-laboratory, an auditorium, and a library science class room.

A dog may be man's best friend, but to some, the loyalty of a horse can't be rivaled.

"There is a real empathy that can develop between a rider and a horse," Myke Ramsey, equestrian team coach, said. She is involved in the Saddle Club and has coached the equestrian team for the past 4 years.

The team competes in a series of shows throughout the fall and spring semesters. The Saddle Club equestrian team competes against teams from seven other universities and colleges in the Midwest.

Two riding styles are used in the competition. With the first style, an English saddle is used and the horse runs over flat lands and jumps fences, as is done in the hunting field. The second kind of style is based on the image of the working cowboy of years ago. The team competes for high points with each style, according to Ramsey.

Members also compete on an individual bases for high point scores. Their goal is to acquire enough points at the end of the year to qualify for regionals and if they win there, to go on to the nationals.

Competition is made even more difficult, according to Ramsey, because horses aren't hauled from one show to another but are supplied by the host school. Riders have no opportunity to get used to the horse that they will ride in competition.

Ramsey said that members of the team don't have to be expert horsemen to compete. Eight different riding levels, ranging from beginners to those with advanced skills, are available. Competitors go against others with the same riding ability.

Team membership ranges from 30-35 members. The Intercollegiate Horse Show Association sets down two rules for membership on the team. The first is that the student must be an undergraduate and the second is that the student must be under professional instruction.

Students must also be members of the Saddle Club. The club has existed since the 1930's, according to Ramsey. Club members are charged $150 a semester that helps pay for the weekly riding lessons.

The team is not affiliated with the School of Agriculture or the Department of Animal Industries, Ramsey said. "Every other team that we compete against is supported by their university."

"We don't have the support that the other teams do, but we can still compete because of the arrangements with a private stable."

Le Cheval de Boskydell, the stable used by the team, is owned by Mark and Jill O'Donoghue. "They have given us constant support over the last 4 years," Ramsey said. The stable has an indoor arena and excellent horses she added.

Because of this private stable, the Saddle Club and the equestrian team participate in more activities, according to Ramsey. They are able to keep up on what's going on in the horse show world.

The Saddle Club travels to horse shows other than those run by ISHA so that students can see what goes on, according to Ramsey. They also attend horse sales. "I try to give them exposure to all the horse activities that are available."

Members can attend a variety of clinics. Past clinics include one in which students learned how to rope a calf, another on cleaning and taking care of their horses and a third on driving carriages and buggies.

The club is active all year long with clinics, shows and competition.

According to Ramsey, riding is a sport that you can participate in until you can't get on the horse any longer.

This year the Home Show will take place Nov. 5 at Le Cheval de Boskydell. Ramsey said that last year's show drew about 250 competitors. Horses must be borrowed from all over Southern Illinois.

Artists' cooperative opens; variety of work to be shown

By Sara Lyter
Staff Writer

Painters, print makers, sculptors and others in the visual arts now have a place other than the University and local shops to show their work.

The recently established Associated Artists Gallery, 213 S. Illinois Ave., is the place — the only artists' cooperative in the area.

Some local frame shops display area artists' works and there are organizations like the Illinois Ozarks Craft Guild that organizes and sponsors folk art shows, but the co-op is different from these.

The co-op currently has 15 charter members who contributed time and money to get the gallery on its feet and now pay a monthly fee, according to Rene Potter, a local watercolor painter.

Kathleen Sanjabi a fiber artist, was the founder of the co-op. She found the available building while looking for studio space. She said she mentioned it to a few people and they started holding meetings.

"There are places for theatrical arts and musical arts," Sanjabi said. "We wanted a place for visual arts as well."

"Eventually it seemed clear that the best thing to do, and the most feasible, was to see if there were enough people to start a co-op," she said.

Two types of shows are held in the gallery. One is a group show which features work done by all of the co-op members. The other is an individual show which features the work of one or two member artists. The shows usually run about a month.

Most of the work shown is for sale. Individual artists set the price of the items. When something is sold, the gallery receives a small percentage of the price to help defray the costs of operating the gallery.

"As far as we've gone, I think what we set out to do, we've done," Potter said. "We don't expect it to be a financial success like other businesses."

The main purpose of the gallery is to give local artists a

After an initial setback, Carbondale's Memorial Hospital is prepared to resubmit to the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board its application to build an outpatient surgery unit.

Citing the size of the proposed facility, the board expressed its intent to deny the application in a 5-4 vote Aug. 12.

But Memorial Hospital Administrator George Maroney said he believes chances are good the application will be approved when the board meets again in November.

"We're very optimistic in our response to the specific points the board raised," Maroney said.

Chief among the boards objections was the size of the facility. With Memorial's two operating rooms, the planned 8,500-square-foot facility is nearly twice as large as the median size for such facilities in Illinois. The median is 2,200 square feet per operating room, according to Mary Hucks, a public relations officer for the Illinois Department of Public Health.

The hospital has responded by reducing the size of its proposed facility by 20 percent, to about 6,000 square feet. That move has also knocked "several hundred thousand dollars" off the $1.5 million price tag for the center, Maroney said.

Maroney said he was encouraged by the fact that in its voting an intent to deny the hospital's application, the board gave reasons for its decision.

"If they vote an intent to deny without giving specific points, you normally don't stand a chance of getting approval," Maroney said.

Carbondale Clinic Administrator Wayne Given would not comment on the upcoming vote on the clinic's application.

A public hearing on the clinic's proposal will be held Aug. 31 at 7 p.m. at the Carbondale Community Center. People will be given an opportunity to comment on the project. The testimony will be considered by Comprehensive Health Planning in Southern Illinois in developing recommendations to the planning board.

Those unable to attend the hearing may submit written comments to CHPSI at Box 496, Salem, Ill. 62881.

News You Can Use

chance to exhibit their work, she said. Co-op members also hope to organize workshops and possibly start a lecture series.

Potter said the co-op is hoping to develop support in the Carbondale community. Sanjabi said some type of fund-raising event will have to be held. Although no definite plans have been made.

New members to the cooperative are welcome and any interested artists should stop by the gallery to see what they have to offer, Sanjabi said.

Aim is understanding

Council turns conflict to progress

By Charles Victor
Staff Writer

Aris Kotsioris, president of the International Student Council, sits on a hot seat.

Being the leader of an organization that deals with people from a plethora of different cultures, countries, religions and ideologies can be difficult at times. Jack Endeley, 1981-82 president, called it "a real test of your dedication to a cause" and "a seat of controversy."

But it is also a seat where one learns a great deal. Endeley talked of experience gained in such a post and of the "many people you meet who are also dedicated to the cause of international understanding and peace."

Bruce Swinburne, vice-president for student affairs, said he has the "deepest respect" for the ISC.

"In the last decade it has made many positive contributions," he said. "One that comes to my mind immediately is the International Festival, which has been valuable not only to the University but to the region as well."

Kotsioris has dealt with the ups and downs of the hot seat well enough to be elected to serve a second term as ISC president.

"There are difficulties, but I stick firmly to the constitution,"

he said. "In the recent International Soccer Tournament the anti-Khomeini Iranian group said they were not being allowed to play. But the Iranians have five different groups. Our constitution allows only one representative from a country or region. So unless there is a formal application by another group to represent Iran the problem is not an ISC problem."

According to Kotsioris the ISC was formed in the late 1950s.

"In the beginning it was an extension of the Office of International Education under Charles Klasek, the director of international education. In 1972, it became an independent association of presidents of national, regional and special interest groups like the Chinese, to serve as an umbrella organization for international students," Kotsioris explained.

The ISC currently has 17 representatives. It has an annually elected president and vice presidents for internal affairs and finance. The current vice-presidents are Somenath Mitra from India and Ahmed Reza Heydari from Iran. In addition, the Council has three appointed commissioners and an assistant to the president. Two weeks ago the ISC set up a new publications committee to handle its bi-annual publication, The Globe.

With international student population at SIU-C growing to almost 2,500 in recent years, more and different needs have surfaced.

"We need international students to be more involved in all of SIU's programs and not only programs of special interest to them," Swinburne said.

How far has integration gone? Endeley, who recently returned to SIU after a year in St. Louis, observed that progress has been made.

"I see we have a better budget," he said. "This shows more recognition of the ISC."

With the entire foreign student population as its constituency, the ISC is the largest recognized student organization at the University. It is now rated a Priority One organization by the Undergraduate Student Organization, and its funding was increased from $2,900 for last year to $7,500 for 1983-84.

"With this money we can do a great deal of things," said Kotsioris. The ISC has organized workshops in various areas to educate foreign students and "to make the administration notice us."

To facilitate student participation, some of the money will be used to produce The Globe. Another program started by the ISC was the annual International Soccer Tournament.

STUDENT CODE FOR SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

DIVISION I - TITLE, AUTHORITY, AND ENFORCEMENT

Section 1-101—Title

These regulations shall be known as the Student Conduct Code for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, and shall hereafter in this document be referred to as the code.

Section 1-102—Authority

The regulations contained herein are established under the authority granted by law to the Board of Trustees to establish rules and regulations for the government and management of Southern Illinois University.

Section 1-103—Effective Date

These regulations are effective for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale from and after Fall Semester, 1973.

Section 1-104—Enforcement

The basic responsibility for compliance with these regulations shall be incumbent upon all members of the University community. The overall responsibility for the enforcement of these regulations rests with the President of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale or his designees in accordance with the established procedures of the discipline system.

DIVISION II—COVERAGE AND DEFINITIONS

Section 2-101—Coverage, General

A. The regulations contained herein shall apply to all students of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

B. Nothing herein is intended to limit the authority of law enforcement officers acting in the line of duty.

Section 2-102—Definitions

The words and phrases used in these regulations, for the purpose of these regulations, shall have the meanings respectively ascribed to them as follows:

A. "Admission" means admission, readmission, reentry, registration, and reregistration as a student to any educational program at the University.

B. "Board" means the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University.

C. "President" means that individual appointed by the Board as the chief executive, administrative and academic officer of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and any person authorized and directed by him to act on his behalf.

D. "Code" means the Student Conduct Code including procedures in disciplinary matters for Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

E. "Members of the University community" means the members of the Board of Trustees, employees and registered students of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

F. "Student" means any person registered or enrolled in one or more classes.

G. "University" means Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

H. "University official" means any individual authorized and directed by the President or his designees to perform any delegated function.

I. "Days" shall mean all days the business of the University are open and shall exclude holidays and days when the University is not in session.

DIVISION III - PURPOSE, RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES AND JURISDICTION

Section 3-101—Purpose

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is dedicated not only to learning, research, and the advancement of knowledge, but also to the development of ethically sensitive and responsible persons. It seeks to achieve these goals through a sound educational program and policies governing individual conduct that encourage independence and maturity. By accepting membership in this University, an individual joins a community characterized by free expression, free inquiry, intellectual honesty, respect for others, and participation in constructive change. All rights and responsibilities exercised within this academic environment shall be compatible with these qualities.

The University community has a responsibility to provide for its members those privileges, opportunities and protections which best promote and strengthen the learning process. In striving to achieve this goal all participants must remain cognizant of the rights of others.

Therefore, the regulations contained herein and the sanctions for violation of the same are for the purpose of providing and maintaining an environment conducive to the educational development of students on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Section 3-102—Rights and Responsibilities

Students shall be free to examine all questions of interest to them and to express opinions. They shall be guaranteed all constitutional rights including free inquiry, expression and assembly. All regulations shall seek the best possible reconciliation of the principles of maximum academic freedom and necessary order.

To the maximum extent feasible, all University community members shall participate in the formulation and revision of regulations governing conduct. Every regulation shall be clear, brief and specific as possible. Disciplinary sanctions shall be commensurate with the seriousness of the offense. Repeated violations may justify increasingly severe disciplinary sanctions. All regulations governing student conduct shall be made public in an appropriate manner. Procedures and sanctions used in adjudicating violations of this code are designed for their educational significance and protection of the educational environment rather than their punitive effect. In all cases, appropriate appellate channels will be available.

Section 3-103—Jurisdiction

This code shall apply to conduct occurring on property owned or controlled by the University. When a student has been apprehended elsewhere for the violation of a law, the University will not request special consideration for that individual because of his status as a student. The University will cooperate fully with law enforcement and other agencies with the purpose of aiding in the rehabilitation of the student. Although ordinarily the University will not impose further sanctions after a law enforcement agency has disposed of the case, the University reserves the right to initiate disciplinary action if the student's conduct has substantially interfered with its educational functions. Any disciplinary action taken on this basis shall conform to the provisions of this code, including appeal.

DIVISION IV—VIOLATIONS OF THE STUDENT CONDUCT CODE

Section 4-101—Acts of Educational Dishonesty or Deceit

A. Plagiarism: representing the work of another as one's own work, or participation in plagiarism by preparing a writing with the knowledge that it is to be used by another as representing that person's own work.

B. Cheating by any method or means.

C. Knowingly and willfully falsifying or manufacturing scientific or educational data and representing the same to be the result of scientific or scholarly experiment or research.

D. Furnishing false information to academic officers relative to academic matters.

Section 4-102—Acts of Obstruction, Intimidation, Damage, and Destruction

A. Physical abuse, direct threat of violence, or intimidation of another person.

B. Vandalism, arson, malicious damage or destruction of private, public, or University property, including library materials.

C. Unauthorized possession and/or use of firearms, explosives, and other types of arms classified as weapons as defined in the Illinois Revised Statutes.

D. Intentional obstruction or substantial interference with any person's right to attend or participate in any University function.

E. Participation in any activity to disrupt any function of the University by force or violence.

F. Deliberate disobedience or resistance of identified University officials acting in the line of duty.

G. Theft, accessory to theft, and/or possession of stolen property.

H. Any reckless behavior which represents a danger to person or property.

Section 4-103—Acts of Misappropriation or Trespass

A. Misappropriation or conversion of University funds, supplies, equipment, labor, material, space or facilities.

B. Furnishing false information to the University with intent to deceive.

C. Forgery, alteration or misuse of University documents, records, and identification cards.

D. The intentional entering of false fire alarms, tampering with fire extinguishers, alarms, or other safety equipment.

E. Trespassing or unauthorized entry.

F. Forgery or issuing a bad check with the intent to defraud.

Section 4-104—Acts Relating to Drugs

Unauthorized manufacture, sale, delivery or possession (in any amount) of any drug defined as illegal under municipal, state or federal law.

Section 4-105—Acts relating to University Regulations and Policies

A. Student violation of University Housing regulations and University policies on alcohol, demonstrations, pets or smoking will be adjudicated under this code.

B. Violations of any other University policy will not normally be adjudicated under this code.

Section 4-106—Acts Against The Administration of This Code

A. Initiation of a complaint or charge knowing that the charge was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false.

B. Interference with or attempts to interfere with the enforcement of this code, including but not limited to intimidation or bribery of hearing participants, acceptance of bribes, perjury or disruption of proceedings and hearings held under this code.

DIVISION V—INITIATION OF DISCIPLINARY PROCEEDINGS

In matters of academic misconduct disciplinary proceedings will be initiated and carried out within the academic unit in which the alleged offense occurred.

Any member of the University community may initiate disciplinary proceedings, except in cases of academic misconduct, by filing a complaint within 70 days of discovery of conduct which violates the Student Conduct Code. The complaint must be made in writing and submitted to the Student Life Office. The individual against whom the complaint has been made shall be notified within a reasonable period of time. The Student Life Office shall make a preliminary investigation of the complaint. If, after a preliminary investigation by the Student Life Office, no grounds are found for proceeding with disciplinary action, the complainant shall be notified. If the complainant wishes to proceed with a charge, a request for action must be filed in writing with the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs within ten days of receipt of the notification letter. The Student Life Office may convene disciplinary proceedings when sufficient evidence has been obtained to warrant a charge being filed against a student for violation of the code without a request for initiation first having been made. Final authority to dismiss complaints shall rest only with the appropriate hearing officer or judicial board.

DIVISION VI—DISCIPLINARY SANCTIONS

A record of any disciplinary sanction specified in this code whether imposed by the Student Affairs Area or the Academic Affairs Area, shall be included in the respective student's personnel file maintained by the Student Affairs Area.

While an individual is on disciplinary probation or under disciplinary suspension, the University shall include a statement of that fact on the official transcript for the duration of the sanction. An individual who is given a disciplinary sanction may petition for an early termination of that disciplinary sanction.

Restitution, where reasonable, will be imposed as a result of damage to or misappropriation of property.

Sanctions which may be imposed for violation of this code shall include the following:

Section 6-101—Disciplinary Censure

Disciplinary Censure is a sanction applied in writing for violations of University regulations. In the event of further violation of University regulations while under Disciplinary Censure, the violator may expect to receive a more severe disciplinary sanction. The censure shall be imposed for a specific period of time or until specified conditions are met.

Section 6-102—Disciplinary Probation

Disciplinary Probation is a sanction under which a student shall lose certain privileges. The probation shall last for a stated period of time or until specific conditions have been met. All conditions must be clearly related to the offense and must be specified by a hearing officer or judicial board.

Any misconduct during the probationary period will bring further disciplinary action and may result in suspension. Disciplinary Probation includes loss of good standing for the duration of the sanction. (It should be noted that this status may result in the loss of some types of financial assistance.)

Section 6-103—Disciplinary Suspension
Disciplinary Suspension is an involuntary separation of the student from the University for a stated period of time or until a stated condition is met, after which readmission will be permitted.

Section 6-104—Indefinite Suspension
Indefinite Suspension is an involuntary separation of the student from the University which would require a written petition to the appropriate administrative official before readmission will be considered.

TO MEMBERS OF THE UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY

The Student Conduct Code was of Southern Illinois University or policy for Southern Illinois University.

The provisions of this code sustaining the orderly atmosphere need its educational mission and for personnel concern necessary for the University Community.

Recent changes in the administration have necessitated the creation of this policy. Pursuant to a committee has been formed and suggestions for revision should be chair, Office of the Vice President Hall.

Albert Somit
Albert Somit
President

Section 6-105—Academic Sanctions
Sanctions for academic misconduct not specified in this code but appropriate to, and customary in, academic settings may be applied.

DIVISION VII—ALTERNATIVE MEASURES

Alternative measures may be imposed for violations of this code only when mitigating circumstances make a disciplinary sanction inappropriate.

Section 7-101—Written Reprimand
In cases of minor violations of the Student Conduct Code, a written warning may be substituted for official disciplinary action. The purpose of the reprimand shall be to call to the student's attention the responsibility of meeting certain minimal community standards. Records of reprimands will be maintained only at the area level and shall be used only in cases of further violations of the code.

Section 7-102—Involuntary Withdrawal
After consultation by the hearing officer with medical, psychological or other professional personnel, an individual may be separated from the University by the hearing officer if such action is judged to be in the best interests of the student and/or the University.

If the involuntary withdrawal is accompanied by conditions, then the individual shall be readmitted to the University only upon a determination by a hearing officer that the conditions have been satisfied. Any conditions must be clearly related to the circumstances causing the withdrawal, and must be specified by the hearing officer.

Section 7-103—Interim Separation

In the case the President or his designee has reasonable cause to believe that a serious, and direct threat: to the safety and well-being of the members and/or property of the University community will be present if an individual is permitted to remain an active member of the community, an interim separation may be imposed, but only after a preliminary hearing or the opportunity of a preliminary hearing is afforded. If it is impossible or unreasonably difficult to accord a preliminary hearing prior to the interim separation, the individual shall be afforded such a preliminary hearing at the earliest practical time. The purpose of the preliminary hearing will be to determine if there is justification for withholding the interim separation. During the preliminary hearing the student will be provided a statement of the reasons for interim suspension and an opportunity to rebut. Interim separation is temporary and shall be enforced only until the completion of a full disciplinary hearing. A full disciplinary hearing shall be provided within a reasonable period of time.

INDUCT CODE UNIVERSITY AT CARBONDALE

DIVISION VIII- IMPLEMENTATION

All disciplinary sanctions imposed for academic misconduct shall be implemented by the appropriate academic officer and approved by the President or his designee.

All disciplinary sanctions or alternative measures not related to academic misconduct shall be implemented by the Dean of Student Life and approved by the President or his designee.

Southern Illinois
University at Carbondale

Bruce A. Swinburne

All disciplinary sanctions specified in this code will begin:

1. when the appeal period has expired;
2. when the student has waived his right of appeal; or
3. when specified by the final adjudicating body.

DIVISION IX-JUDICIAL SYSTEMS STRUCTURE

Section 9-101—Judicial Systems

A. Adjudication of cases of academic misconduct shall be the responsibility of the appropriate academic areas. The judicial procedures of these units shall be consistent with basic principles of fairness and procedural and substantive due process including appeal.

B. The adjudication of other violations of the Student Conduct Code and the imposition of resulting disciplinary sanctions, is the joint responsibility of students, faculty, and professional staff.

C. The basic principles which shall be observed are the following:

1. Any student charged with a violation of the Student Conduct Code shall have the choice of judicial board or administrative hearing. The choice is to be made separately at each successive level in appellate cases.
2. Any student charged shall have the option of having an open or closed hearing. However, the hearing authority shall have the option to close any hearing, in whole or in part, if it is deemed that it shall be in the best interest of the witnesses or any other parties. If disruptive behavior on the part of the public attending a hearing occurs, the hearing authority, after appropriate warning, may order those engaging in disruptive behavior removed from the hearing, and may continue or suspend the hearing for appropriate period of time.
3. Any student receiving disciplinary action has the right of appeal.

C. Judicial Board Structure: Judicial boards shall be established parallel to the administrative structure of the University. Matters of academic misconduct shall be handled by judicial panels or administrative personnel under procedures established by the individual colleges and schools. The student governance constituencies shall have sole power to arbitrate and resolve questions related to the student governance structure. A Student Conduct Review Board shall be established at the level of the President and will handle cases of both academic and non-academic matters including any matter referred to it by the President.

All judicial board hearings will be heard by a panel drawn from these boards and each panel shall consist of seven members with two alternates. A decision shall be made by a majority vote of the seven member panel. Any full-time student (as defined by the Registrar's Office) who is currently enrolled may serve on a judicial board if that student is in good academic and disciplinary standing during the term of his appointment.

1. Area Judicial Board—Each living area shall have a judicial board comprised of students from the respective living area. All appointees to an area judicial board shall be the joint responsibility of the area executive council with representatives from University Housing staff and the Student Life staff participating in the selection process. Prior to ratification of these appointments, a review shall be conducted by the Dean of Student Life to insure that the appointees meet the minimal standards of service set forth in this code. If no appointments are forthcoming as a result of this selection process within a reasonable period of time, the Assistant Dean of Student Life shall make the appropriate appointments necessary to complete the membership.

All voting members of the board shall be students, and each board shall have an administrative advisor. The operating procedures of the board including tenure of members and organization shall be determined by the board with the concurrence of the Assistant Dean of Student Life consistent with the policy statement. Any matter of dispute in organization, procedure or selection of members may be referred to the Campus Judicial Board or the Dean of Student Life.

2. Campus Judicial Board—the Campus Judicial Board shall be comprised of both graduate and undergraduate students. These students shall be appointed by the respective student governance constituency heads with the advice and consent of the appropriate constituency bodies. Prior to ratification of these appointments by the constituency body, a review shall be conducted by the Dean of Student Life to insure that the appointees meet the minimal standards of service set forth in this code. If no appointments are forthcoming from either constituency within a reasonable period of time, the Dean of Student Life shall make the appropriate appointments necessary to complete the membership.

The board may consider appellate cases from all area judicial boards or area administrative hearing officers, and such original cases may be referred to it by the Dean of Student Life or his designee. The board shall have an administrative advisor. The organization of the board, the tenure of its members, and operating procedures in matters of judicial concern, consistent with this policy statement, shall be determined by the board with the concurrence of the Dean of Student Life. Any disputes over organization procedures or the tenure of members in matters of judicial concern may be referred to the Student Conduct Review Board or the Vice President for Student Affairs.

3. Student Conduct Review Board—The Student Conduct Review Board shall be comprised of undergraduate and graduate students and faculty appointed by the respective governance constituency heads with the advice and consent of the appropriate bodies. Prior to ratification of these appointments by the constituency bodies, a review shall be conducted by the Dean of Student Life to insure that the appointees meet the minimal standards of service set forth in this code. If no appointments are forthcoming from any of the constituency bodies within a reasonable period of time, the President or his designee shall make the appropriate appointments necessary to complete the membership. The Board shall have an administrative advisor. The organization of the board, the tenure of its members, and operating procedures in matters of judicial concern, shall be determined by the board with the concurrence of the President or his designee consistent with this code. The Student Conduct Review Board may consider appellate cases and other matters referred to it by the President.

D. Professional Staff (Administrative) Hearing Officer Structure

1. Area-Level Administrative Hearing Officers—Judicial hearings at the residential level will be the responsibility of the Assistant Dean of Student Life or his designee. All rights and options available as provided for herein will be observed during administrative hearings at this level.

2. Campus-Level Administrative Hearing Officers—Judicial hearings at the campus level (both appeals of area discipline actions and appropriate cases of original jurisdiction) shall be the responsibility of the Dean of Student Life or his designee. All rights and options available as provided for herein will be observed during administrative hearings at this level.

3. President's-Level of Administrative Adjudication—Judicial hearings at the President's level shall be the responsibility of the President or his designee. All rights and options available as provided for herein will be observed during administrative hearings at this level.

DIVISION X-JUDICIAL PROCEDURE

Section 10-101

A. The rights and responsibilities of students charged with acts of academic misconduct shall be specified by the appropriate academic unit.

B. The following is the format of rights and responsibilities to be utilized during judicial proceedings unrelated to academic misconduct. Any exclusion, modification, and/or deletion of the following must be requested from, and approved by, the Dean of Student Life.

1. Prior to a hearing a student charged in violation of the Student Conduct Code is entitled to:
  - a. A notice of charges
  - b. Be apprised of all relevant evidence
  - c. Choose between administrative staff or judicial board hearing authority
  - d. Choose between open or closed hearing
  - e. A notice of time, place, and format of the hearing

(1) The hearing will be held no sooner than five days after notification of the charges.

2) Under exceptional circumstances, changes in the hearing date may be granted by petitioning the Dean of Student Life.

Any student charged with a violation of the Student Conduct Code is expected to participate fully in the established judicial program. Prompt response to all delivered correspondence is necessary in order to expedite judicial matters and result in the most efficient application of the adjudication process. Notice of charges will be considered to have been delivered if the notice has been sent to the current local address of the charged as provided to the Admissions and Records Office of the University by the student. Thus, failure to notify the University of changes of address could result in a hearing being held in absentia.

Failure to respond to delivered correspondence regarding the hearing option will result in referral of the charges to the appropriate judicial board.

2. During a hearing
The charged is entitled to:
  - a. Advisory assistance. The advisor may be any individual of the student's choice. The role is advisory in nature, and the advisor may not directly participate in the proceedings as a principal.
  - b. Present witnesses and any information relevant to the case.
  - c. Present written statements or depositions which may be taken from persons that are unable to attend hearings.
  - d. Hear and question all witnesses and have access to all relevant information and evidence.
  - e. The option to have the hearing tape recorded in all cases of initial jurisdiction. However, official records will be made of all hearings, and all appellate cases and open hearings shall be tape recorded.
  - f. Challenge hearing panel members for cause. The removal of a panel member will be at the discretion of the remaining panel members.
  - g. Remain silent.

The University is entitled to challenge hearing panel members for cause. The removal of a panel member will be at the discretion of the remaining panel members.

It is the policy of all hearing agents that statements, evidence, or comments given during hearings will be held in strictest confidence by members of the board and its advisor(s). No public statements shall be made by the members of the hearing panel before or during the hearing, or before, during or after deliberation. In all hearings, at all levels, no individual will be required to offer evidence which may be self-incriminating.

3. After the hearing
The charged is entitled, to a written statement within a reasonable time, of the decision of the hearing, listing all judicial actions. Such notice shall include the options and procedures for making an appeal.

a. If the hearing was closed, the decision of the hearing and any recommended sanctions will be available only to those charged.

b. If the hearing was open, the decision of the hearing and any recommended sanctions will be posted in the Student Life Office for a period of 24 hours commencing with the time the individual was formally notified of that decision.

4. Appeal of decision and/or sanction. Any decision or sanction may be appealed to the next higher level of the judicial structure. However, the right of appeal does not entitle a student to a full rehearing of his entire case. Rather, the appeal board should limit its review of the hearing board's record to four issues:

- a. Were the judicial procedures correctly followed?
  - b. Did the accused have an adequate opportunity to prepare and present a defense?
  - c. Did the evidence presented at the hearing justify a decision against the student?
  - d. Was the sanction imposed in keeping with the gravity of the violation?
- An appeal may be denied for insufficient grounds. However, if the appeal is granted, the appeal agent may:
- a. Accept the report and decision of the hearing agent.
  - b. Reverse the hearing agent's decision and dismiss the case.
  - c. Accept the decision of the hearing board but reduce the sanction imposed.
- The appeal agent may not increase the sanction. The University has the right to appeal rulings that affect the admissibility of evidence.

DIVISION XI-DIVISIBILITY AND AMENDING PROCEDURE

Section 11-101 Divisibility

Should any division, section, or subsection of these regulations be declared unconstitutional or void by any court of competent jurisdiction, the remainder of these regulations shall remain in effect. Under such circumstances, the President or his designee shall have the authority to establish a new division, section, or subsection for that which has been declared void or unconstitutional, in order to give full force and effect to the intent and the purpose of these regulations. New divisions, sections, or subsections shall be submitted through the amending procedure and filed with the Board of Trustees.

Section 11-102—Amending Procedure

At the request of any recognized constituency or the appropriate Vice President, the President or his designee shall appoint an ad hoc committee to consider amendments to this code. The committee shall consist of two undergraduate students, one graduate student, one faculty member, one representative from the University Housing Office, and one representative from the Student Life Office. The student and faculty members shall be designated by their appropriate constituencies.

The President may propose amendments to the code to the Board. Whenever the circumstances allow he shall give due consideration to the advice of the committee provided for in the preceding paragraph. Amendment will be accomplished by the regular procedures for amendment of Board policy.

Any amendment of the code shall become effective only after general notice of such change has been given to the student body, faculty and administrative staff. General notice shall include, but not be limited to, public notification of approved amendments twice successively published in the DAILY EGYPTIAN in their entirety within seven days after approval of said amendments by the President of the University.

Rec Center serves everyone not just olympic gold athletes

By Mary Knoepfle
Student Writer

You can't use the Recreation Center unless you're an Olympic gold medalist or a jock with a $100,000 scholarship, right? Wrong. For some reason, many students aren't aware that the Recreation Center offers extensive recreational activities for the average person.

"The majority of what we are trying to do is to get the average student to get over here and participate in the kinds of activities that aren't demanding," Kathy Rankin, coordinator of recreational sports said. "You don't have to be an athlete to get involved."

The Leisure Exploration Service, which is located on the first floor of the Recreation Center, encourages students to explore different leisure activities and helps them decide which activities are best suited for them. It is a recreational resource center.

"The Leisure Exploration Service has everything from A to Z on recreational and planned activities," Rankin said.

Workshops are offered to help students become more aware of their leisure values and help them organize their leisure time.

The Leisure Exploration Service offers information through a referral system that lists activities available for students. The leisure resource file includes information about state parks, campus activities, cultural events and outdoor sport activities.

An activity-trip board is posted in the lower level of the Recreation Center. Rankin said that students who want to participate in a recreational activity but don't have a partner or necessary equipment can fill out a card with their names, phone numbers and requested activities. Students who read the board can get together with the other student and plan their own recreational activities and trips.

"Last year roughly 4,000 students used the Leisure Exploration Service," Rankin said. "It's an under-used service that students don't know enough about." Rankin hopes to see more participation this year.

She said that the Leisure Exploration Service is open every day from 2 to 6 p.m.

The informal Recreation Program gives students the opportunity to become involved in noncompetitive programs and to use sports equipment and campus facilities for their own recreational needs.

Over 17,000 students participated in noncompetitive programs last year like dance, exercise, weight training, aqua exercise and bicycling," Rankin said. "Dancercise is by far the biggest program."

Some of the new programs offered last year included weight management, adult introduction to swimming and morning stretch. "We pride ourselves on the variety of programs we have in fitness and awareness of leisure lifestyling," Rankin said.

Tennis courts are available for student use near the Towers, by the arena and across from the Law School. The courts by the Law School are lighted. Groups can reserve areas around Campus Lake for picnicking and the Campus Boat Dock is open to students from noon to 5 p.m. every day until October, Rankin said.

"We offer instruction on canoeing. There is a workshop and class to teach you," Rankin said.

Students can check sports equipment out like volleyball nets and horse shoes free of charge at the equipment desk in the Recreation Center, she said.

The Base Camp Program is located next door to the Leisure Exploration Service. Students and groups can rent camping equipment there for very reasonable rates. "You can get just about everything you need for an outdoor experience," Rankin said. "They have anything from a canoe to a lantern to a bicycle pack there."

Sports clubs are open to all SIU-C students. Certified sports clubs are permitted to use the name Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in affiliation with their club titles.

"In the 32 clubs we had last year, 1,000 students were members," Rankin said. "We'd really like to see those numbers go up. There's plenty of room for more people to belong to the clubs."

Intramural sports offer variety

By Maureen Foy
Student Writer

"Time out at the Rec" is an informal activity organized by the Student Orientation Program to introduce new students to the Recreation Center.

Many games and activities were set up for new students to engage in casual play.

However, casual play doesn't have to come to an end as the orientation program concludes. The intramural program continues to offer students an opportunity to socialize while participating in many sports, says Joyce Craven, intramurals director.

"In addition to the traditional sports scheduled for the fall semester, we have added disc golf," Craven said. "Usually this sport is scheduled only for the summer program."

Regulation soccer will be offered outdoors, a move Craven said was an attempt to attract more participants.

The intramural program will begin with 12-inch softball and tennis singles. Rosters may be picked up at the Recreation Center office. The closing date for turning in rosters is Aug. 29.

"This early closing date may pose some problems for new students," Craven said. "It gives them only one week to sign up a team and they may not know very many people."

But the center will also try to match individuals with teams, Craven said.

Students may participate in their own division, men's or women's, as well as the co-rec division. "We try to offer all three categories in every tournament," Craven said.

The divisions are further divided into A, B and C leagues, depending on a team's level of skill.

Division A is designed for highly competitive and skilled players. Division B is competitive, yet the skill varies among players. Division C is much more casual and has no playoffs.

Black Affairs Council tries to maintain power

Dwayne C. Dixon
Student Writer

"The greatest priority of the Black Affairs Council at this point is to maintain its present degree of respectability, credibility and influence," Clive W. Neish, council coordinator, says.

Neish, a senior in marketing, is concerned with establishing BAC as the No. 1 spokesman for black students at SIU-C. He is interested in establishing this not only in the minds of students who participate in other organizations, but all black students attending the University, he said.

"We need to make sure that when BAC is talking, BAC has, if nothing else, the moral support of the entire black student population," Neish said.

BAC addresses the cultural, social, educational and political concerns of black students. It is also concerned with admission policies, academic affairs, recruitment and retention of minority students, student government and student affairs and programming.

BAC has been charged with duplicating the services and programming of other organizations, but according to Neish, one charge is not valid. He said that quite often when there are programs that are best handled by other organizations they are encouraged to do so.

Programs sponsored by the council have a different thrust and response because they are handled by the official representative of the black student population, according to Neish.

One of the council's projects this year was Camp Southern Summit, a conference where student leaders from colleges and universities throughout the Midwest discussed issues concerning black student constituency groups.

Neish cited BAC's involvement in the Arheuser-Busch boycott, the election of Chicago Mayor Harold Washington and the endorsement of USO President Bruce Joseph in the elections this spring, in answer to the charge that BAC's programming is too social.

"These are the types of things that BAC should be involved with and will continue to be involved with in the future," Neish said.

The organizations in BAC include several sororities and fraternities for blacks as well as other organizations that are of primary interest to the black community.

Neish said that the BAC has changed from an almost totally radical group to one that is "as professionally run as any on campus."

Judy Collins to lead off Celeb Series

By Terry Levecke
Staff Writer

For the past 17 years, the Celebrity Series at Shryock Auditorium has made it possible for Southern Illinois residents to enjoy fine art performances typically restricted to big cities. This coming season is no exception. Brad Faughn, public relations agent for the series, said this season's lineup promises to be one of the best yet. A great diversity in dance, music, and drama will provide something to everybody's liking, he said. The season will include such big-name entertainers as Judy Collins and Della Reese, along with television celebrities Michael Learned, Anthony Zerbe and Roscoe Lee Browne. The dance portion of the series will vary from the modern choreography of the Hubbard Street Dance Company to Tchaikovsky's classic "Sleeping Beauty" to the imaginative style of the Tokyo Ballet.

An array of music styles — country and western, blues, ragtime and jazz will be presented in several different formats.

Judy Collins will kick off the Celebrity Series season on Friday, September 30. Her work has been credited not only as a commercial success as she enters her third decade of recording, but also as being of artistic importance for her unique integration of folk, art songs and pop idioms.

"I want to move my audience to tears and laughter," Collins said, "to send them home changed, to bring them a catharsis in lyrics and rhythm and melody."

Lynn Anderson or Stella Parton will star in November's presentation of "Pump Boys and Dinettes," one of the first country and western musicals to come to Southern Illinois, Faughn said. The final selection for the cast has not yet been made.

The production, which was nominated for best musical in the 1962 Emmy Awards, portrays the shenanigans of the "pump boys" who run a gas station and the "delicious waitresses" of the Double Cupp Diner, which is across the street. The musical romps through a down-home sampler of rockabilly, bluegrass, gospel, ballads and blues.

Music of the early 1900s, born under the genius of Scott Joplin, will be revisited when the New American Ragtime Ensemble comes to Shryock Saturday, October 8. Performing in formal dress of that period, the 12-member orchestra will provide an evening of music known for its synchopated rhythms, combining conventional harmony and classic musical forms that were made popular on old sporting house pianos.

The next musical feature will follow in February, as Della Reese and company come to Carbondale to perform the new Broadway musical, "Blues in the Night" on Tuesday, Feb. 7.

Hailed by the New York Times as "the first hit of the 1982-83 season. Slick, opulent, remarkable," the musical features such blues classics as "Lover Man," "When a Woman Loves a Man," and "Am I Blue."

On Friday, April 6, the Newport Jazz Festival All Stars will arrive from Newport, R.I. to play what is considered by many to be the best jazz around today.

Over the years, the All Stars have featured an array of outstanding artists and have performed in concert halls from Tokyo to Rome.

This edition of the Newport All-Stars will be directed by Rubv Braff and assembled by festival founder and producer George Wein.

The drama highlight of the season will bring together three television celebrities to demonstrate their extensive backgrounds of Shakespearean acting in "Country Matters: Selected Seductions by Shakespeare."

Michael Learned, best known for her Emmy Award-winning role in "The Waltons," will be joined by Anthony Zerbe of New Country, a group from the Hubbard Street Dance Company, will be featured in the Celebrity Series. Dancers are, from left, Shauna Goddard, Claire Bataille, Michelle Gormish, Ginger Farley and Rick Hilsabeck. Show date Saturday, Feb. 8 in Shryock.

"Harry O" fame and Roscoe Lee Browne, who has starred in several different TV series, to present a variety of scenes from some of Shakespeare's greatest works.

The evening performance on Friday, Nov. 4, will be followed by a morning workshop held Saturday by the three performers in McLeod Theater. Admission to the workshop is $1, or is free with a ticket stub from the evening performance.

The dance portion of the series will begin with Tchaikovsky's "Sleeping Beauty" on Friday, January 27.

The classic ballet will feature Elanor D'Antuono as Prima Ballerina. She has been described as America's most versatile ballerina and has the distinction of being the first American to star with Russia's famed Kirov Ballet and as the first guest artist to appear with Chinese dance companies.

Ann Marie DeAngelo, a former member of the San Francisco and Joffrey Ballet companies will also be featured.

The Hubbard Street Dance Company will come from Chicago on Saturday, Feb. 8 to display their blend of classical ballet with the flash and sparkle of show dance.

The company is directed by Lou Conti, originally from Du Quoin, who founded the company in 1977. The company has a sort of storybook rise to fame, Faughn said, and has performed in the Paris International Dance Festival.

Conti has choreographed many Broadway musicals and performed on Broadway in "Cabaret," "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," and "Mame."

Judy Collins

The Celebrity Series is fortunate to be able to present Tokyo Ballet on Saturday, April 21, Faughn said. The company uses western classical music and combines classical foundations of ballet with the creativity of contemporary dance.

"Nothing like it has been in Southern Illinois before," Faughn said.

Director Shigeru Yokoi uses real life events as the basis of his choreography — depicting occurrences such as the bombing of Hiroshima and the Japanese war-crime trials.

In order to make this wide variety of fine entertainment available to more people, the series is offering two "customized" formats of ticket packages, which allow the biggest discounts in the Series' history, Faughn said.

The shows are divided up into two groups: Group I, in which ticket prices range from $9.50 to $13, include Judy Collins, "Pump Boys and Dinettes," "Sleeping Beauty," Hubbard Jessi Dusterberg-Chavez and Tony Chavez play with Star Stuff at Rainbow's End Preschool.

Rainbow's End stresses learning

By Johanna Ingvarsdotir
Student Writer

Rainbow's End Preschool serves children of University students, faculty and staff. "We look at the children's needs and we are always willing to modify our program in order to meet the needs of the children whatever that might be," said Sandra Lutzker, school director.

The preschool is run by the Office of Student Development. It is licensed by the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services. The program also offers opportunities for academic research and training.

Rainbow's End offers an experience-based curriculum, emphasizing a developmental approach to learning, with the child as an active participant, Lutzker said. Areas stressed are language development, music, movement, dramatic play, science, mathematics and art.

Funding comes from the preschool tuition. The Student Affairs Office and the Undergraduate Student Organization also contribute some funds, Lutzker said. The preschool in the Lakeland School on Giant City Road.

of senior citizen day-care centers.

The school's capacity is 55 children, but it may be expanded in the fall.

News You Can Use

Cost for each child is less than other preschools, Lutzker said. That is because a sliding scale is used that is based on parent's income and how many hours the child stays each week, Lutzker said. Fees range from $24 to $37 a week.

"We have a staff here of six professional teachers and two student workers," Lutzker said. "Also, students are out here doing practicum experiences, student teaching and we have involvement in various programs around the University, like motor development study, children's literature study, nutrition study and so forth."

The preschool students also join in activities with members

Group II, in which ticket prices range from $6 to $10, includes "Country Matters: Selected Scenes of Seduction by Shakespeare," New American Ragtime Ensemble, and Newport Jazz Festival All Stars.

There are three categories under the customized plan. In the Grand Series category, patrons can buy six shows in Group I and receive all three in Group II free — which averages a 27 percent discount from buying the tickets individually. In the Choice Series, five shows are purchased in Group I and two shows in Group II are free, which amounts to an average discount of 22 percent.

In the Sampler Series, a patron buys any four shows in Group I and receives any one show in Group II free — an average savings of 16 percent.

Deferred payments are also allowed under the plan, Faughn said. Tickets may be ordered through the Shryock Auditorium box office.

Wednesday, Sept. 7 is the deadline for season ticket sales orders and individual tickets go on sale Monday, Sept. 12.

The Theta Xi Variety Show brings together members of all Greek-letter social groups.

'Partying Greek' stereotype doesn't ring true, leaders say

By John Stewart
Student Writer

Stereotypically, fraternity men are from well-to-do families. They practice degrading hazing activities upon weaker junior members, drink large amounts of beer and drive sports cars. The sorority woman is supposed to be just plain snobbish.

According to Pat McNeil, assistant director of student development, that stereotype does not hold for the Greeks of the '80s — especially at SIU-C. Greek groups today are characterized by diversity and goal direction, she said. And instead of hazing, which is illegal in the state of Illinois, they have constructive associate member programs. In addition to parties, the benefits of "going Greek" include leadership development, scholastic focus, social functions and learning activities.

"Members are able to develop leadership skills that they will use for the rest of their lives," said Bob Craig, chairman of the Inter-Greek Council, the governing body of the 21 fraternities and sororities on campus. "Bonds of friendships that will last a lifetime are created through the Greek experience."

Scholarship is another important aspect of Greek life, he said. Each year the chapters compete for the Inter-Greek Council's scholarship award, using the resources of their upperclassmen and offering awards as incentives for outstanding performances. Last year, Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity took the competition with a 3.01 grade point average.

"Fraternities and sororities provide the environment for intellectual and social learning through formal and informal activities," said Bob Dennis, senior in cinema and photography and a past fraternity president. "Greek life provides an ideal peer group."

Also high on the list of Greek priorities are community service and philanthropy. In addition to each chapter's individual activities, the Inter-Greek Council sponsors many charitable events, such as the Dance-a-thon for muscular dystrophy, Operation Merry Christmas for needy children and a variety show-benefitting the University's scholarship fund. They also sponsor a Welcomefest and a Watermelonfest during student orientation and spirit activities before all home football games.

Each year the Inter-Greek Council gives a Service to Southern award to the SIU-C student most-deserving and the Leo Kaplan Award which is presented to a biological sciences student who has at least a 3.5 grade point average and "shows great potential." Both awards are open to any student body member and not just Greeks.

Each fall the Greeks hold a "rush" for potential members. The three sub-councils each hold their own rush. Members of the Panhellenic Council, primarily white fraternities and sororities, held their rushes Aug. 17-20. Pan-Hellenic sororities, primarily black, will hold their rushes on Sept. 10 while the Pan-Hellenic fraternities will hold theirs on Oct. 23.

Last year, the total membership of the SIU-C chapters was 655, a number McNeil says hasn't varied much in the past few years. There are 13 frats and eight sororities — the largest of which is Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity with 49 members.

For many new students, the word "fraternity" brings to mind Animal House, but that image is quickly changing.

"SIU-C has a unique Greek system that doesn't fit the typical mold," Craig said. "SIU-C Greeks are community minded and goal-oriented people."

Wellness Center offers information and guidance

Mary Knoepfle
Event Writer

The Wellness Center provides information and guidance by counseling and in workshops, groups and classes for students interested in attaining good health through education.

"We don't come in as experts telling you what to do. We try to work with you to help you identify the things that you would like to change about yourself," said Nancy Logan, a health educator and counselor at the Wellness Center.

The main office of the Wellness Center is located across the street from the Health Service on the second floor of Kesnar Hall. Lifestyle programs are available there that deal with a wide range of health concerns.

Alcohol and drug counseling is available for students who are experiencing personal or family problems with alcohol or drugs. The center also specializes in designing fitness-exercise programs for everyone

In addition to the ongoing groups, the Wellness Center will hold several workshops throughout the year including:
